Foes Expect To Talk Rights Bill To Death

Uneasy Truce Marks Racial Trouble Spots

By The Associated Press

An uneasy truce prevailed Sunday on the Southern segregation front.

Everything was quiet in the trouble spots, but Negro ministers in Montgomery, Ala., where a Negro woman was hit in the head by a stick-wielding white man Saturday, reportedly asked their congregations to support peaceful student sit-in demonstrations against racial discrimination.

Montgomery police destroyed half a dozen race-baiting signs found tacked up on trees in white residential sections. The signs bore such messages as, "Have you fired your Negro worker yet?"

There was a bomb scare in Chattanooga, Tenn., Saturday night at a Negro high school gymnasium during a basketball game. The building was emptied quickly, but police found no trace of an explosive. The game was resumed.

Chattanooga police, fearful of a recurrence of last week's disturbances, made 18 precautionary arrests during the night, breaking up groups and clusters of potential troublemakers.

In Nashville, Tenn., 75 persons, nearly all students, arrested after three fights broke out during a sit-in demonstration in a downtown variety store, were released on $100 bond each late Saturday night despite their earlier announced intentions to remain in jail over the weekend.

They came out of their cells after college officials personally appealed to them. They face charges of disorderly conduct and loitering.

Meanwhile, Negro leaders in Tuskegee, Ala., indicated they plan to further demonstrations like the one staged Saturday when an estimated 300 to 400 students at the famed Negro institute made an orderly protest march.

The march provoked only one minor racial incident which was quickly handled by police. The Negroes said they felt they had accomplished their purpose in registering their feeling against denial of Negro voting rights, general maltreatment of Negroes and in support of demonstrations staged by other Negro groups in the South.

Snow Blankets Eastern Areas

By United Press International

A new snow storm moving eastward from the Rockies tapered off to a widespread but moderate snowfall Sunday from the Mississippi Valley through Western Pennsylvania.

The storm had started off with a roar Saturday, whipping snow, sleet, freezing rain and fog across the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles, Kansas, and parts of Iowa and Missouri.

Three to six inches of snow fell across Kansas, hardest hit by the storm, but threats of four more inches did not materialize, and skies were sunny over Missouri and Kansas Sunday.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for mountainous areas of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia with three to seven inches of new snow forecast.

Princess, Fiance Attend Church

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones went to church together for the first time Sunday.

The happy engaged couple left their weekend retreat, the royal lodge in Windsor Great Park, while the dew was still on the ground and attended Holy Communion in the private royal chapel under the shadow of Windsor Castle.

Then, after breakfast at the lodge with Queen Mother Elizabeth, they went back to the chapel with other members of the royal family for morning worship.

Since both are members of the Church of England, there are no complications in this romance, which might have arisen had Margaret chosen a husband of a different denomination. They knelt and prayed together.

At the service they were joined by the Queen Mother, Queen Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, Princess Anne and Princess Andrew of Greece, Philip's mother.

Chou Agrees To Meet Nehru In New Delhi

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China has agreed to meet Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi in April in an attempt to settle their angry border dispute "in friendly and peaceful manner."

Announcing this Sunday, Radio Peiping reported Chou sent Nehru a note saying the Chinese government "takes a positive attitude toward the forthcoming meeting and has confidence in it."

Thus, after months of wrangling through exchanges of notes and letters, the two leaders will meet face to face and discuss their conflicting claims to 51,000 square miles of mountainous territory on the frontier.

While Chou professed some optimism, Nehru, in his note Feb. 5 suggesting they get together in New Delhi, took a darker view.

"For the moment," Nehru wrote, "I do not see any common ground between our respective standpoints. Still, I think it might be helpful for us to meet."

In accepting the Nehru invitation, Chou's note, dated Feb. 26, said he hoped "to see the dark clouds hovering between our two countries dispersed through our joint efforts, so that the long-standing friendly relations between the two countries may be consolidated and developed."

Nehru had suggested a meeting in March. But Chou said that "owing to reasons in connection with state affairs, I shall come to your country in April." A specific date will be set later.

Chou first proposed in a letter last Dec. 18 that he and Nehru meet Dec. 26 either in Communist China, Rangoon or elsewhere. Nehru rejected the Chinese proposal, describing Chou's letter as "merely a reiteration of claims to extensive areas of our territory."

Involved are 36,000 square miles in the northeast and 15,000 square miles on the Ladakh plateau 1,000 miles farther west that are claimed by India.

Dixie Bloc Will 'Play It By Ear,' Leader Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said Sunday the southern forces he is leading in the fight against civil rights legislation are determined to talk the bill to death.

With round-the-clock debate scheduled to start Monday, after two weeks of preliminary skirmishing, Russell said the southern opponents have no detailed campaign plan but will "play it by ear from day to day."

"We shall undertake to talk until we present every phase of this matter to the country," Russell said in a TV interview (ABC-College News Conference).

He said that if a national audience could be shown all the damage to the Constitution and the union of the states that would be caused by the civil rights proposals "the people would awake to the fact that they are being sold a bill of goods." Then, Russell said, the people would demand that the bill be pigeonholed "and we believe it will."

"Political Field Day"

The Georgian repeated his charge that recent Negro demonstrations in the south against segregated seating in variety stores are inspired from outside to stir up race riots that would encourage enactment of civil rights legislation.

Russell also characterized efforts to pass civil rights bill as "just a political field day" in a presidential election year.

As for his plans, Russell said he has no detailed strategy mapped out but wouldn't reveal his hand publicly if he did. He added that the maneuvers would be introduced "by degrees."

In one unusual move, the southern Democratic senators turned to congressional leaders to speed House action on a civil rights bill.

Faced with the prospect that the Senate might vote legislation endorsing school integration, Southerners agreed to go along with strategy designed by Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to bring what they regard as a more moderate bill before the Senate.

House Action Speedup Sought

In line with this agreement they sent an emissary to Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) asking him to reconvene the House Rules Committee and advance House consideration of civil rights to March 3 instead of the scheduled beginning date of March 10.

Smith, who is chairman of the Rules Committee, has withheld any final answer on this proposal, largely because of the absence in Texas of House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex).

The object of the strategy would be to get a House-passed bill to the Senate before the Senate gets deep into voting on its own version of the measure, now tied up in marathon talk in projected round-the-clock sessions starting Monday.

Johnson obviously believes that substitution of a House measure for the Senate version might result in final enactment of what he has called a "reasonable" bill.

However, this probably would involve Senate acceptance without change of the House measure. And nobody knows now what kind of bill the House might pass.

Promoters Give Up Idea Of Olympic Striptease

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Gay-hearted plans to stage a striptease Olympic championship in Milan during the Rome Olympic games this year have bumped to a dismal end.

Three nightclub operators who sent out tentative bids to some of the world's most fetching undressers said sadly Sunday night that "friends persuaded us to give up the idea."

There was a feeling, so strong as to be virtually a certainty, that those "friends" were top brass in the Italian police.

These noteworthies were reported to have let it be known that, "There'll be no stripping and teasing here in Olympic year — if ever."

While it lasted, the idea had promised to lure Olympic visitors by thousands from the track and field events in Rome.

Giordano Sacchi, owner of Milan's Trianon cabaret, offered to stage the championships in his nightclub. If one club couldn't hold the crowds, there was talk of splitting the eliminations into three Olympic-style heats to pack two other nightclubs.

Sacchi said he and the other organizers had already contacted some potential championship material: Coccinelle, the French female impersonator; Rita Cadillac, the strip queen from Grenoble; Aiche Nana, the Turkish belly dancer whose impromptu show in a Rome restaurant last year is still under police scrutiny; Lily St. Cyr, the Paris and Las Vegas lovely; Cha Landres of Budapest, and scores of others.

"All those we contacted were enthusiastic about the idea," Sacchi said disappointedly. "All, that is, except those friends of ours."

Ex-Con Kills Two Relatives "To Get Even"

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (UPI) — A 21-year-old ex-convict Sunday shot and killed his grandfather and uncle with a sawed-off shotgun because "I had a feeling I wanted to kill someone."

Wayne (Pappy) Brown told police he also had planned to kill his father and the latter's girlfriend, but he got so cold walking in sub-freezing temperatures that he decided to surrender.

"I feel I have accomplished something," Brown said in reference to the two killings.

William Keuch, chief of the Schuylkill County detectives, said Brown, who was released from prison last Thursday, said he drank coffee with the victims in the house they shared in nearby Loft Creek before committing the slayings he had "planned for months."

Brown told how he waited until his grandfather, Frank Brown, 73, went to sleep on a couch on the first floor and the uncle, John Brown, 49, went to his second floor bedroom.

Brown said he took his grandfather's 12-gauge shotgun from behind a door, loaded the weapon with 12 shells and shot his grandfather.

The uncle, who was awakened by the shot, came down to investigate and was struck in the chest when he opened the door at the first floor landing.

"They were talking about me and I wanted to get even," said Brown.

Italian Industrialist Dies Aboard Train

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Adriano Olivetti, one of Italy's top industrialists, died Saturday night of a heart attack aboard a train bound from Milan to Lausanne. He was 59.

Inheriting a small typewriter business from his father, he built it into a multimillion-dollar industry which included business machines and precision tools.

Last October Olivetti's company announced it was buying a 35 per cent interest in the giant U.S. Underwood Typewriter Co.

Olivetti also built himself a big name in Italy for his advanced social and economic ideas.

He was a pioneer in establishing a shorter work week and security benefits for the employes of his big factories in Ivrea in northwest Italy.

Search Abandoned

BERLIN (AP) — Flames forced abandonment Sunday of the search for 74 East Germans trapped for six days in a coal mine at Zwickau. Radio East Germany said a fast-spreading underground fire forced back rescue teams trying to reach men entombed in the mine. This makes the death toll for this mine disaster 123 since 49 bodies were recovered earlier.

Khrushchev Hands Indonesia Big Loan

Sukarno Pledges To Remain Neutral

BOGOR, Indonesia (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sunday handed this neutralist Southeast Asian nation a loan of 250 million dollars.

In turn, Indonesian President Sukarno promised to keep neutral between East-West blocs.

Economic and cultural agreements and a joint communique were signed by the two leaders as a climax to Khrushchev's 12-day visit to Indonesia, which ends next Tuesday.

The economic agreement granted a seven-year credit, at 2½ per cent interest to be paid back in 12 years in British pounds or commodities rather than Indonesian rupiahs.

The two countries also agreed to enter into a trade agreement in which the Soviet Union would increase its purchases of Indonesian rubber and other products.

As a gift, Khrushchev announced the Soviet Union would build a new 200-bed hospital and clinic.

In the communique, Indonesia said she "firmly adheres to its active and independent foreign policy, a policy of nonalignment with existing military alliances." The Western-oriented Southeast Asia treaty organization (SEATO) is the only alliance in the area.

Khrushchev bowed to Sukarno's appeal for Asian-African representation at the summit by expressing hope that conferences subsequent to the one next May will include "appropriate countries of Asia and Africa" not aligned in any existing alliances.

Also, Khrushchev supported again Indonesia's claim to Dutch New Guinea.

The communique expressed hope for an agreement at Geneva ending nuclear tests, and lauded Khrushchev's proposals for total world disarmament.

Despite the huge Soviet loan, Foreign Minister Subandrio said this country still needs 500 million dollars for a basic program of industrialization.

High Indonesian sources said, however, the economic pact gives Indonesia credits for building a steel plant and for developing its agricultural, textile, chemical and nonferrous metal industries. It also provides for construction of one or two nuclear reactors under a 1956 Soviet aid offer.

The pact may give this agricultural country a major boost toward industrialization.

By dangling the big credit agreement, Khrushchev obviously hopes to arrest Indonesia's slow drift toward the West.

Memorial Held For Bandsmen

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Sailors on the USS Macon paid homage in a moving memorial service Sunday to shipmates killed in a plane crash in Rio de Janeiro last Thursday.

Nineteen members of the Navy band, stationed aboard the Macon, were killed when the Navy transport in which they were riding collided with a passenger airliner over Rio's harbor.

Sailors, including members of the band lined up at attention on the bow of the Macon. Argentine sailors and officers from a nearby ship marched on board and lined up with the U.S. Navy men.

The Macon chaplain, Lt. Cmdr. R. W. Below, conducted the service. A hymn was sung by the "Sea Chanters," the band's choral group. Below read the 22nd Psalm and prayed for the men who died. As the chaplain read the list of those killed, a sailor dropped to his knees in the middle of ranks drawn up at attention. He remained kneeling while taps were played by a bugler standing on a gun turret.

Eight Of Family Found Dead In Rural Home

THOMSON, Ill. (AP) — Eight members of a family were found dead in their rural home near Thomson Sunday night and the Carroll County sheriff's office said they apparently died of asphyxiation.

The sheriff's office identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hensel and their six children, two boys and four girls. Their ages were not available immediately.

The bodies were discovered, the sheriff's office said, by Eddie Shuler of Morrison, Ill., an auto dealer for whom Hensel worked.

The Hensels lived in a home one mile southwest of Ebner, Ill., a small railroad switching station just south of Thomson in northwest Illinois.

Fresh Snowfall Cushions Airliner's Belly Landing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A fresh snowfall cushioned the wheels-up landing of a crippled Trans World Airlines passenger plane at nearby Olathe Naval Air Station Sunday.

The plane, a twin-engine Martin with six passengers and three crew members aboard, lost its left two wheels during takeoff from Chicago Sunday morning on a scheduled flight to Peoria, Ill. It was rerouted to Olathe for the emergency landing.

Capt. Bob Rice, 37, of Chicago, the pilot, said, "I've never made a belly landing before and never want to again."

Rice said he thought all along he could bring the plane down safely with the facilities available at Olathe.

A TWA spokesman said the plane set down on four inches of new snow and skidded about 300 to 400 feet before coming to a stop.

"I don't think I realized the danger we were in," said Sharon Lorentzen, 21, the hostess who had been with TWA 20 months Saturday. "The people themselves were the ones who prevented panic. There was absolutely no hysteria."

Miss Lorentzen, of Gary, Ind., said she and the passengers joked and talked to each other during the emergency. She said they were in the air three hours after learning of the landing gear trouble.

The other crew member was Frank Haffner the copilot.

The normal passenger load for the plane is 40. The craft was diverted to Olathe because it is close to the main TWA overhaul base at Kansas City and because of firefighting equipment and other facilities at Olathe.

Pledge Effort For Prosperity

Physical Strain Of Tour Telling On Eisenhower

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)—The physical strain of President Eisenhower's South American tour appeared to be starting to tell on him Sunday.

After 2½ hours of fishing for salmon and trout, the 69-year-old President looked more tired than Washington newsmen had seen him in a long time.

His face was ruddy as usual, and he is sunburned after a week in the South American summer, but he seemed to be exerting great effort as he walked up a sharp incline to his hotel. A moment later he paused at the foot of a flight of stairs as if summoning energy to mount to his second floor suite.

During the next two hours the President had a nap—a usual mid-day procedure since his 1955 heart attack — and he looked quite refreshed at the end of that period when he and Argentine President Arturo Frondizi posed for photographers on the hotel lawn.

Washington reporters who are on this trip and who also toured 11 nations with Eisenhower last December were remarking Saturday that the President again seemed to be bearing up extremely well under the gruelling grind. The newsmen once thought nothing could be rougher than the physical ordeal they went through in December in Europe, Asia and Africa.

But to a man they agree the intense heat and humidity they have encountered on this South American tour have made the trip more physically exhausting than the earlier one.

Ohio Insurance Executive Slain By Teenage Son

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—An insurance company executive was wounded fatally as he lay in bed in suburban Beachwood early Sunday. Police said the man's 18-year-old son, who had been under psychiatric treatment, admitted the shooting.

Dead was Dallas H. (Tex) Forbush, 57, shot three times with a .22-caliber pistol. His wife, Marjorie, 52, was wounded but was reported in good condition at suburban Community Hospital.

Police Chief John Havel said Forbush and his wife arrived home about 3 a.m. from an evening of playing bridge with friends.

Forbush found his son, Scott, in the kitchen and reprimanded him for being up so late.

About two hours later, Haval said, Scott stood between his parents' twin beds and fired three bullets at his father. His mother awoke, and the youth turned and fired three times at her, Havel said. However, only one bullet hit Mrs. Forbush in the back.

Scott's sister, Karen, 20, also was in the residence. When she came from her room, Scott pushed her back and told her, "Go back to bed," Havel reported.

Scott then called police and told them someone had shot his parents. He at first denied, then admitted the shootings, Havel said.

Noninterference Called Keystone Of Friendship

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)—President Eisenhower and Argentine President Arturo Frondizi—in a Declaration of San Carlos de Bariloche—Sunday night rededicated their governments to strive for better living standards for the peoples of the Americas.

The declaration, issued shortly after the close of private talks between the two presidents, also declared that noninterference is the keystone of harmony and friendship within the inter-American system.

The two chiefs of state signed the one-page declaration at a hotel in this picturesque Swiss-type resort in the Andes foothills after returning from talks at a ranch across Lake Nahuel Huapi from Bariloche.

The communique said the discussions dealt with questions relating to the peace, liberty and cultural and material possibilities for the peoples of America.

The signing ceremony took place in a hotel dining room that had been stripped bare except for one long table. About 200 officials of both countries penned their signatures. After the signing, both men shook hands and embraced each other in the Latin-American manner.

Ike Appears Relaxed

Both presidents were applauded upon entering and leaving the room. Eisenhower appeared to be in a genial, relaxed mood.

The declaration, coming after three days of talks between Eisenhower and Frondizi, said they decided to reaffirm the decision of their respective governments to promote standards of living for the peoples of America.

A better standard of living is the consequence of economic progress it said, and that this in turn depends on an adequate economic policy, friendly international cooperation, the efficient utilization of natural resources and the talent and capacity of the citizen.

Economic progress and better living standards, the declaration said, facilitate the development of strong and stable political institutions, permitting nations to make a more effective contribution for international understanding.

Everything that serves to strengthen democratic institutions, it continued, contributes not only to political, economic and social progress but also to the improvement of relations among states.

Ike Flies To Chile Monday

The declaration next praised the inter-American system as an effective instrument for the achievement of peace and cooperation among nations. It reaffirmed the principle of nonintervention as the cornerstone of harmony and international friendship as a corollary to mutual respect between nations large or small.

The governments of Argentina and the United States will continue dedicating their efforts and energies for the achievement of these ideals, it concluded.

The Declaration of Bariloche was issued after Frondizi called for more U.S. financial and technical aid for Latin America. At a news conference, Frondizi linked the necessity for such aid to resistance against Soviet Russia's efforts to penetrate the hemisphere with its influence.

Frondizi met with reporters while Eisenhower was away for nearly six hours on a fishing trip in one of the world's finest trout streams.

This was the first chance for Eisenhower, now at the halfway point of his South American tour, to have a little relaxation since he left Washington last Monday.

Monday he flies over the Andes to Santiago, Chile.

Ex-Con Kills Two Relatives "To Get Even"

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (UPI) — A 21-year-old ex-convict Sunday shot and killed his grandfather and uncle with a sawed-off shotgun because "I had a feeling I wanted to kill someone."

Wayne (Pappy) Brown told police he also had planned to kill his father and the latter's girlfriend, but he got so cold walking in sub-freezing temperatures that he decided to surrender.

"I feel I have accomplished something," Brown said in reference to the two killings.

William Keuch, chief of the Schuylkill County detectives, said Brown, who was released from prison last Thursday, said he drank coffee with the victims in the house they shared in nearby Loft Creek before committing the slayings he had "planned for months."

Brown told how he waited until his grandfather, Frank Brown, 73, went to sleep on a couch on the first floor and the uncle, John Brown, 49, went to his second floor bedroom.

Brown said he took his grandfather's 12-gauge shotgun from behind a door, loaded the weapon with 12 shells and shot his grandfather.

The uncle, who was awakened by the shot, came down to investigate and was struck in the chest when he opened the door at the first floor landing.

"They were talking about me and I wanted to get even," said Brown.

Italian Industrialist Dies Aboard Train

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Adriano Olivetti, one of Italy's top industrialists, died Saturday night of a heart attack aboard a train bound from Milan to Lausanne. He was 59.

Inheriting a small typewriter business from his father, he built it into a multimillion-dollar industry which included business machines and precision tools.

Last October Olivetti's company announced it was buying a 35 per cent interest in the giant U.S. Underwood Typewriter Co.

Olivetti also built himself a big name in Italy for his advanced social and economic ideas.

He was a pioneer in establishing a shorter work week and security benefits for the employes of his big factories in Ivrea in northwest Italy.

Search Abandoned

BERLIN (AP) — Flames forced abandonment Sunday of the search for 74 East Germans trapped for six days in a coal mine at Zwickau. Radio East Germany said a fast-spreading underground fire forced back rescue teams trying to reach men entombed in the mine. This makes the death toll for this mine disaster 123 since 49 bodies were recovered earlier.

Khrushchev Hands Indonesia Big Loan

Sukarno Pledges To Remain Neutral

BOGOR, Indonesia (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sunday handed this neutralist Southeast Asian nation a loan of 250 million dollars.

In turn, Indonesian President Sukarno promised to keep neutral between East-West blocs.

Economic and cultural agreements and a joint communique were signed by the two leaders as a climax to Khrushchev's 12-day visit to Indonesia, which ends next Tuesday.

The economic agreement granted a seven-year credit, at 2½ per cent interest to be paid back in 12 years in British pounds or commodities rather than Indonesian rupiahs.

The two countries also agreed to enter into a trade agreement in which the Soviet Union would increase its purchases of Indonesian rubber and other products.

As a gift, Khrushchev announced the Soviet Union would build a new 200-bed hospital and clinic.

In the communique, Indonesia said she "firmly adheres to its active and independent foreign policy, a policy of nonalignment with existing military alliances." The Western - oriented Southeast Asia treaty organization (SEATO) is the only alliance in the area.

Khrushchev bowed to Sukarno's appeal for Asian-African representation at the summit by expressing hope that conferences subsequent to the one next May will include "appropriate countries of Asia and Africa" not aligned in any existing alliances.

Also, Khrushchev supported again Indonesia's claim to Dutch New Guinea.

The communique expressed hope for an agreement at Geneva ending nuclear tests, and lauded Khrushchev's proposals for total world disarmament.

Despite the huge Soviet loan, Foreign Minister Subandrio said this country still needs 500 million dollars for a basic program of industrialization.

High Indonesian sources said, however, the economic pact gives Indonesia credits for building a steel plant and for developing its agricultural, textile, chemical and nonferrous metal industries. It also provides for construction of one or two nuclear reactors under a 1956 Soviet aid offer.

The pact may give this agricultural country a major boost toward industrialization.

By dangling the big credit agreement, Khrushchev obviously hopes to arrest Indonesia's slow drift toward the West.

Memorial Held For Bandsmen

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Sailors on the USS Macon paid homage in a moving memorial service Sunday to shipmates killed in a plane crash in Rio de Janeiro last Thursday.

Nineteen members of the Navy band, stationed aboard the Macon, were killed when the Navy transport in which they were riding collided with a passenger airliner over Rio's harbor.

Sailors, including members of the band lined up at attention on the bow of the Macon. Argentine sailors and officers from a nearby ship marched on board and lined up with the U.S. Navy men.

The Macon chaplain, Lt. Cmdr. R. W. Below, conducted the service. A hymn was sung by the "Sea Chanters," the band's choral group. Below read the 22nd Psalm and prayed for the men who died. As the chaplain read the list of those killed, a sailor dropped to his knees in the middle of ranks drawn up at attention. He remained kneeling while taps were played by a bugler standing on a gun turret.

Eight Of Family Found Dead In Rural Home

THOMSON, Ill. (AP) — Eight members of a family were found dead in their rural home near Thomson Sunday night and the Carroll County sheriff's office said they apparently died of asphyxiation.

The sheriff's office identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hensel and their six children, two boys and four girls. Their ages were not available immediately.

The bodies were discovered, the sheriff's office said, by Eddie Shuler of Morrison, Ill., an auto dealer for whom Hensel worked.

The Hensels lived in a home one mile southwest of Ebner, Ill., a small railroad switching station just south of Thomson in northwest Illinois.

Fresh Snowfall Cushions Airliner's Belly Landing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A fresh snowfall cushioned the wheels-up landing of a crippled Trans World Airlines passenger plane at nearby Olathe Naval Air Station Sunday.

The plane, a twin-engine Martin with six passengers and three crew members aboard, lost its left two wheels during takeoff from Chicago Sunday morning on a scheduled flight to Peoria, Ill. It was rerouted to Olathe for the emergency landing.

Capt. Bob Rice, 37, of Chicago, the pilot, said, "I've never made a belly landing before and never want to again."

Rice said he thought all along he could bring the plane down safely with the facilities available at Olathe.

A TWA spokesman said the plane set down on four inches of new snow and skidded about 300 to 400 feet before coming to a stop.

"I don't think I realized the danger we were in," said Sharon Lorentzen, 21, the hostess who had been with TWA 20 months Saturday. "The people themselves were the ones who prevented panic. There was absolutely no hysteria."

Miss Lorentzen, of Gary, Ind., said she and the passengers joked and talked to each other during the emergency. She said they were in the air three hours after learning of the landing gear trouble.

The other crew member was Frank Haffner the copilot.

The normal passenger load for the plane is 40. The craft was diverted to Olathe because it is close to the main TWA overhaul base at Kansas City and because of firefighting equipment and other facilities at Olathe.

Pledge Effort For Prosperity

Physical Strain Of Tour Telling On Eisenhower

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)—The physical strain of President Eisenhower's South American tour appeared to be starting to tell on him Sunday.

After 2½ hours of fishing for salmon and trout, the 69-year-old President looked more tired than Washington newsmen had seen him in a long time.

His face was ruddy as usual, and he is sunburned after a week in the South American summer, but he seemed to be exerting great effort as he walked up a sharp incline to his hotel. A moment later he paused at the foot of a flight of stairs as if summoning energy to mount to his second floor suite.

During the next two hours the President had a nap—a usual mid-day procedure since his 1955 heart attack — and he looked quite refreshed at the end of that period when he and Argentine President Arturo Frondizi posed for photographers on the hotel lawn.

Washington reporters who are on this trip and who also toured 11 nations with Eisenhower last December were remarking Saturday that the President again seemed to be bearing up extremely well under the gruelling grind. The newsmen once thought nothing could be rougher than the physical ordeal they went through in December in Europe, Asia and Africa.

But to a man they agree the intense heat and humidity they have encountered on this South American tour have made the trip more physically exhausting than the earlier one.

Ohio Insurance Executive Slain By Teenage Son

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—An insurance company executive was wounded fatally as he lay in bed in suburban Beachwood early Sunday. Police said the man's 18-year-old son, who had been under psychiatric treatment, admitted the shooting.

Dead was Dallas H. (Tex) Forbush, 57, shot three times with a 22-caliber pistol. His wife, Marjorie, 52, was wounded but was reported in good condition at suburban Community Hospital.

Police Chief John Havel said Forbush and his wife arrived home about 3 a.m. from an evening of playing bridge with friends.

Forbush found his son, Scott, in the kitchen and reprimanded him for being up so late.

About two hours later, Haval said, Scott stood between his parents' twin beds and fired three bullets at his father. His mother awoke, and the youth turned and fired three times at her, Havel said. However, only one bullet hit Mrs. Forbush in the back.

Scott's sister, Karen, 20, also was in the residence. When she came from her room, Scott pushed her back and told her, "Go back to bed," Havel reported.

Scott then called police and told them someone had shot his parents. He at first denied, then admitted the shootings, Havel said.

Noninterference Called Keystone Of Friendship

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)—President Eisenhower and Argentine President Arturo Frondizi—in a Declaration of San Carlos de Bariloche—Sunday night rededicated their governments to strive for better living standards for the peoples of the Americas.

The declaration, issued shortly after the close of private talks between the two presidents, also declared that noninterference is the keystone of harmony and friendship within the inter-American system.

The two chiefs of state signed the one-page declaration at a hotel in this picturesque Swiss-type resort in the Andes foothills after returning from talks at a ranch across Lake Nahuel Huapi from Bariloche.

The communique said the discussions dealt with questions relating to the peace, liberty and cultural and material possibilities for the peoples of America.

The signing ceremony took place in a hotel dining room that had been stripped bare except for one long table. About 200 officials of both countries penned their signatures. After the signing, both men shook hands and embraced each other in the Latin-American manner.

Ike Appears Relaxed

Both presidents were applauded upon entering and leaving the room. Eisenhower appeared to be in a genial, relaxed mood.

The declaration, coming after three days of talks between Eisenhower and Frondizi, said they decided to reaffirm the decision of their respective governments to promote standards of living for the peoples of America.

A better standard of living is the consequence of economic progress it said, and that this in turn depends on an adequate economic policy, friendly international cooperation, the efficient utilization of natural resources and the talent and capacity of the citizen.

Economic progress and better living standards, the declaration said, facilitate the development of strong and stable political institutions, permitting nations to make a more effective contribution for international understanding.

Everything that serves to strengthen democratic institutions, it continued, contributes not only to political, economic and social progress but also to the improvement of relations among states.

Ike Flies To Chile Monday

The declaration next praised the inter-American system as an effective instrument for the achievement of peace and cooperation among nations. It reaffirmed the principle of nonintervention as the cornerstone of harmony and international friendship as a corollary to mutual respect between nations large or small.

The governments of Argentina and the United States will continue dedicating their efforts and energies for the achievement of these ideals, it concluded.

The Declaration of Bariloche was issued after Frondizi called for more U.S. financial and technical aid for Latin America. At a news conference, Frondizi linked the necessity for such aid to resistance against Soviet Russia's efforts to penetrate the hemisphere with its influence.

Frondizi met with reporters while Eisenhower was away for nearly six hours on a fishing trip in one of the world's finest trout streams.

This was the first chance for Eisenhower, now at the halfway point of his South American tour, to have a little relaxation since he left Washington last Monday.

Monday he flies over the Andes to Santiago, Chile.

British Freighter Sails, Leaving Mystery In Wake

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A British freighter put to sea Sunday, leaving behind a mystery as to who stole naval intelligence documents from the captain's cabin.

Newark police broadcast a teletype alarm for an unidentified Negro who was seen Saturday aboard the Wharanui while it was docked at Port Newark.

Police said Capt. F. M. Williamson, master of the 10,000-ton vessel, told them someone broke into his cabin safe and took the documents and some money.

According to Williamson, British Intelligence had prepared the documents, giving the ship's plan of operation in case of war. They were in a sealed and locked canvas bag to be opened in the event of a war involving Britain.

In London, a British admiralty spokesman said the theft did not endanger any British code, since such documents are in simple language.

"We still have not got an official report but every British ship carries naval instructions as to what to do if away from United Kingdom waters in event of war," the spokesman said.

The Wharanui had been at Port Newark for five days, taking on machinery and general cargo. Williamson told police he had been away from the ship since Thursday.

When he entered his cabin shortly after noon Saturday, he found the safe key on the deck and the safe open, Williamson said.

Also missing from the safe was $20 in U.S. Currency and 60 Australian pounds—about $150 — Williamson said. He reported a wallet containing $18 and immigration papers missing from a bureau drawer.

'Stripper Jack,' In Rut; Holdups Follow Pattern

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A masked bandit who's "extremely polite" but no gentleman has folks scratching their heads.

He's in a rut — both in choice of victims and his way of doing business. He's been dubbed "Jack the Stripper."

It's always the same. He leaves his male victims locked in the washroom — and the ladies nude.

In the six or seven jobs bearing his stamp, he hasn't bothered the women — just made them strip and then tied them up.

"Apparently it's too inconvenience them so they can't call the police," sheriff's Sgt. Stanley O. Strange says. "He cuts the telephone line, too."

The fact his prey, always caught unawares in a bar at about 1 a.m., can't agree afterward on what happened doesn't help police any.

But he's a creature of habit.

He has robbed Tommy's Bar three times in six weeks, plus a fourth time a year ago. The Crest Inn, like Tommy's a small establishment, has been favored twice —on Jan. 31 and Feb. 21. The Duckpond Cafe recently was paid one visit.

Usually the bandit wears a nylon stocking over his head. Twice he had a rubber mask with a woman's face.

36 Cars Of B&O Freight Derailed Near Sykesville

SYKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Thirty-six cars and the locomotive of a Baltimore and Ohio freight train derailed Sunday.

No one was hurt. State Police said a broken rail caused the derailment.

A B & O spokesman in Baltimore said the three-unit diesel was pulling 92 cars, most of them empty, from New York City to Brunswick, Md.

The accident happened about 9 a. m. three miles east of this Carroll County town. The B & O said it expected to clear the old main line, not used by passenger trains, sometime Monday.

NSC Tendency To 'Protect' Ike Cited By Lovett

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett says the President should not be "protected" from making the hard decisions on national security.

In secret Senate testimony released Sunday, Lovett suggested that procedures of the National Security Council — the top defense policy body—may have tended to insulate the commander in chief from troublesome problems of the cold war.

Avoiding direct reference to any individuals or specific decisions, Lovett implied the NSC's present methods and size could discourage compromise and delay.

The Republican banker, who was undersecretary of state in the Truman administration and later secretary of defense until President Eisenhower took office, appeared Tuesday before the National Policy Machinery subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash).

The Jackson committee has begun a series of hearings on whether a harder-hitting, faster-moving national effort can be brought about by revising the policy-making machinery.

Four leading businessmen and scholars of government—all political supporters of Eisenhower — agreed in last week's opening hearings that the Soviet threat is greater than has been conceded officially and that the United States can and should do more to meet it.

A portion of Lovett's testimony dealing with the NSC, which he had a hand in creating in 1947, was taken in executive session by prior agreement with the White House.

Navy Tests Theory Space Noises Further Creation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy is trying to test a theory that many mysterious radio noises coming from outer space may be the whispers of further creation.

Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Naval Research Laboratory, a researcher, said Sunday that experiments with high-altitude rockets, and possibly satellites, might provide the answer.

If the theory is proved correct it would explode an opposing view held by other scientists that the universe was created in one big bang billions of years ago.

The Navy's planned studies stem from a theory first advanced by such men as the famed English cosmologist Dr. Fred Hoyle that the creation of matter is still going on in the vast reaches of outer space.

Hoyle's "steady state" theory, shared by some scientists but challenged by advocates of the one-shot universe concept, further holds that galaxies, great clusters of stars similar to our own Milky Way, continuously are being formed.

Finally, it proposes that many of the still - unidentified radio noises from outer space may be related in some way to the process of formation of new galaxies —adding to the billions of such galaxies already known to exist.

Cosmic radio noises — sometimes called "the music of the cosmos" — are being picked up constantly by huge radio telescopes in various parts of the world. These radiowaves, when converted to audible signals, sound "like gravel on a tin roof," according to some astronomers.

Sources of some of these emissions have been traced to certain stars, constellations and even planets within the Milky Way galaxy, and some to gaseous areas of space beyond that.

But the cause of many of the more distant noises still remains a mystery, although some scientists believe they may be due to previously formed galaxies colliding at enormous distances from the earth.

Leipzig Opens Spring Fair

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) —With a call for East-West harmony, Leipzig Sunday opened its spring fair, featuring nearly 10,000 exhibits from 50 countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Fair officials estimate close to half a million West Germans and foreigners will come to this Saxony capital during the 10-day event.

Communist posters predicting a cold war thaw in the "people's spring of 1960" and showing President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at Camp David, keynoted the fair.

To preserve this air of peacefulness, the Soviet Union has even dropped the mighty rocket which dominated the show last year. Instead it exhibits a huge modernistic "cosmos" structure of light metal and a 10-foot-wide lunar globe to demonstrate Soviet space feats.

Most of the Western exhibits are from West Germany, France, Britain, Belgium, Italy, Austria, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark and Netherlands.

Demonstrators Clash In London

LONDON (AP) — Street fighting broke out in London Sunday night after a Trafalgar Square rally against racial segregation in the Union of South Africa.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell kicked off a nationwide boycott of South African products before a cheering, banner-waving crowd of more than 7,000 leftwing demonstrators. Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has emphasized the government does not support the boycott.

Part of the crowd charged toward South Africa House, near Trafalgar Square, at the rally's end. With shouts of "Fascist swine" they attacked counter-demonstrators in trucks covered with pro-South African posters.

Police swarmed down on the mob, scuffling with demonstrators of both sides. They arrested nine persons who were charged with using insulting words and behavior. Police reinforcements managed to disperse the mob by nightfall.

Many West Indians and Africans, young couples, priests and arty unshaven Bohemians in duffle coats and thick sweaters, were at the rally.

Mexican Police Check Mystery Monster Report

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The mayor of Tapachula, Chiapas, has sent a police unit to investigate reports that a mysterious monster-type animal is terrorizing farmers in that southermost Mexican state.

A spokesman for farmers in the region was quoted as saying there is a long-tailed animal on the loose that hurls trees and boulders, but so far no one has been hurt.

The little red schoolhouse of bygone days was always painted red because that color of paint was the cheapest.

Nixon Seen Offering New Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said Sunday he is certain Vice President Richard M. Nixon will come out with a new farm program of his own if, as expected he is the Republican candidate for president.

Mundt disagreed with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's view that the Eisenhower administration's farm program would be supported by Nixon or any Republican candidate.

Finally, it proposes that many of the still - unidentified radio noises from outer space may be related in some way to the process of formation of new galaxies —adding to the billions of such galaxies already known to exist.

Cosmic radio noises — sometimes called "the music of the cosmos" — are being picked up constantly by huge radio telescopes in various parts of the world. These radiowaves, when converted to audible signals, sound "like gravel on a tin roof," according to some astronomers.

Sources of some of these emissions have been traced to certain stars, constellations and even planets within the Milky Way galaxy, and some to gaseous areas of space beyond that.

But the cause of many of the more distant noises still remains a mystery, although some scientists believe they may be due to previously formed galaxies colliding at enormous distances from the earth.

Leipzig Opens Spring Fair

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) —With a call for East-West harmony, Leipzig Sunday opened its spring fair, featuring nearly 10,000 exhibits from 50 countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Fair officials estimate close to half a million West Germans and foreigners will come to this Saxony capital during the 10-day event.

Communist posters predicting a cold war thaw in the "people's spring of 1960" and showing President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at Camp David, keynoted the fair.

To preserve this air of peacefulness, the Soviet Union has even dropped the mighty rocket which dominated the show last year. Instead it exhibits a huge modernistic "cosmos" structure of light metal and a 10-foot-wide lunar globe to demonstrate Soviet space feats.

Most of the Western exhibits are from West Germany, France, Britain, Belgium, Italy, Austria, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark and Netherlands.

Demonstrators Clash In London

LONDON (AP) — Street fighting broke out in London Sunday night after a Trafalgar Square rally against racial segregation in the Union of South Africa.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell kicked off a nationwide boycott of South African products before a cheering, banner-waving crowd of more than 7,000 leftwing demonstrators. Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has emphasized the government does not support the boycott.

Part of the crowd charged toward South Africa House, near Trafalgar Square, at the rally's end. With shouts of "Fascist swine" they attacked counter-demonstrators in trucks covered with pro-South African posters.

Police swarmed down on the mob, scuffling with demonstrators of both sides. They arrested nine persons who were charged with using insulting words and behavior. Police reinforcements managed to disperse the mob by nightfall.

Many West Indians and Africans, young couples, priests and arty unshaven Bohemians in duffle coats and thick sweaters, were at the rally.

Mexican Police Check Mystery Monster Report

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The mayor of Tapachula, Chiapas, has sent a police unit to investigate reports that a mysterious monster-type animal is terrorizing farmers in that southermost Mexican state.

A spokesman for farmers in the region was quoted as saying there is a long-tailed animal on the loose that hurls trees and boulders, but so far no one has been hurt.

The little red schoolhouse of bygone days was always painted red because that color of paint was the cheapest.

Polite Bandits Apologize For $2,500 Holdup

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two armed men took about $2,500 from a liquor store owner in suburban Anne Arundel County Saturday night after apologizing for the holdup.

Albert P. Hock, 34, owner of the store in North Linthicum, told county police the bandits appeared on the scene as he prepared to get into his car shortly after the 10 p. m. closing time.

Harry Himmel, 37, a clerk in the store, was ordered by the gunmen to drive away. Then Hock was abducted in his own car.

Hock said one bandit, carrying a pistol, rode in the back seat. The other, armed with a shotgun and wearing a dirty rag as a mask, rode in front. They got out of the car in Southwest Baltimore.

Hock said the men apologized during the short ride, explaining they pulled the holdup because they were out of work. The men took checks out of the money bag and threw them on the floor of the car.

"They said if they found any more they'd mail them to me," Hock said.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS—While the sabers are rattling louder again in the Middle East, a comparison of strength of Israel and the Arab nations shows the little nation outnumbered about three to one. What bothers the Israelis most, however, is that some Arab nations, notably the United Arab Republic, are emphasizing quality and training. It was a better-trained Israeli fighting force that pushed the Egyptians back off the Sinai Peninsula and across the Suez Canal in the last big action, the one involving the seizure of the canal. In the latest developments, Israel warned the U.N. that the United Arab Republic is engaged in actions which threaten war. The Israeli delegation in a letter to the U.N. Security Council said: "The U.A.R. has been intensifying its policy of hostility against Israel and . . . its campaign of open incitement to war reached dangerous dimensions."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mentally retarded teen-age girls need help in preparing for jobs, and hospitals, short-handed, need volunteers.

The two needs, existing in communities across the nation, merged in Wilmington, Del. Now, the mentally limited girls are helping themselves by helping out in Delaware Hospital.

Mrs. Marian B. Doom, volunteer supervisor for the hospital, reports that the experimental program—with a two-way pitch—can be put to work in any town where similar needs exist.

In a report to the American Hospital Assn., Mrs. Doom said the hospital's work with the mentally limited girls began with a contact from the Delaware Assn. for Mentally Retarded Children.

The hospital was told that several of the girls needed training and could be of service to the hospital in routine jobs.

"At first glance," said Mrs. Doom, "this seemed an almost impossible request to fill. We fully recognized the difficulties and pitfalls of such a program. But we agreed to try."

Within a few weeks, the first group — seven girls—showed up at the hospital. Some of the girls were uneasy at the strangeness of the place and the people.

But everywhere they went to work in the hospital, the girls were met by smiling and patient workers anxious to teach them repetitive chores. Soon, they felt at home.

They first worked in the central sterile supply department, folding towels and abdominal pads.

"It was interesting that they were able to remember, from week to week, what they had learned previously," Mrs. Doom said.

The girls also worked in the laundry, sorting pillowcases for the ironing machine. They learned to sort masses of baby linens. They worked in the addressograph center of the hospital.

Mrs. Doom doesn't hold up the program as a miracle solution for the problems of mentally retarded teen-agers.

"But," she said, "It is one way to keep these children of limited mental capacity from despair—and to make their families happier as they themselves are happier."

Major Triumph

CATANIA, Italy (UPI)—American soprano Ginetta La Banca scored a major triumph here in a glittering performance of "Elixir of Love" by Gaetano Donizetti.

The Sicilian public cheered the black-haired singer from New York during 16 curtain calls after the performance Saturday night at Massimo Opera House.

Special Prayers

LONDON (UPI)—Church leaders of all faiths in Britain called Sunday for special prayers for the 10 - nation disarmament committee due to begin its work in Geneva March 15.

A statement from the leaders of Christian and Jewish faiths said "we call upon all Christian and Jewish people and congregations to pray for the committee that by the providence of God it may be brought to a happy issue."

Employment Drops 34,500 In Maryland

BALTIMORE (AP)—The 1,002,400 Marylanders at work in January totaled 34,500 fewer than in December, the Department of Employment Security reported.

However, the figure for January was 17,200 more than for the same month a year ago.

Unemployment also increased during January over the previous month, from 63,700 to 70,600.

The DES said the changes from December to January reflected seasonal layoffs in wholesale and retail trade, construction, government and service employment.

Aged Spinster Dies When Dress Ignites

SMITHSBURG, Md. (AP)—Miss Minnie Houck, 95-year-old woman who lived alone, burned to death Saturday when her dress caught fire.

Assistant Fire Chief Richard Cline said Miss Houck apparently went into the kitchen to fuel the coal stove and her dress caught fire, and that she ran to her bedroom and collapsed.

Flames were confined to her bedroom.

Miss Houck, a retired bookkeeper, was the oldest resident of this Washington County town.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS—While the sabers are rattling louder again in the Middle East, a comparison of strength of Israel and the Arab nations shows the little nation outnumbered about three to one. What bothers the Israelis most, however, is that some Arab nations, notably the United Arab Republic, are emphasizing quality and training. It was a better-trained Israeli fighting force that pushed the Egyptians back off the Sinai Peninsula and across the Suez Canal in the last big action, the one involving the seizure of the canal. In the latest developments, Israel warned the U.N. that the United Arab Republic is engaged in actions which threaten war. The Israeli delegation in a letter to the U.N. Security Council said: "The U.A.R. has been intensifying its policy of hostility against Israel and . . . its campaign of open incitement to war reached dangerous dimensions."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mentally retarded teen-age girls need help in preparing for jobs, and hospitals, short-handed, need volunteers.

The two needs, existing in communities across the nation, merged in Wilmington, Del. Now, the mentally limited girls are helping themselves by helping out in Delaware Hospital.

Mrs. Marian B. Doom, volunteer supervisor for the hospital, reports that the experimental program—with a two-way pitch—can be put to work in any town where similar needs exist.

In a report to the American Hospital Assn., Mrs. Doom said the hospital's work with the mentally limited girls began with a contact from the Delaware Assn. for Mentally Retarded Children.

The hospital was told that several of the girls needed training and could be of service to the hospital in routine jobs.

"At first glance," said Mrs. Doom, "this seemed an almost impossible request to fill. We fully recognized the difficulties and pitfalls of such a program. But we agreed to try."

Within a few weeks, the first group — seven girls—showed up at the hospital. Some of the girls were uneasy at the strangeness of the place and the people.

But everywhere they went to work in the hospital, the girls were met by smiling and patient workers anxious to teach them repetitive chores. Soon, they felt at home.

They first worked in the central sterile supply department, folding towels and abdominal pads.

"It was interesting that they were able to remember, from week to week, what they had learned previously," Mrs. Doom said.

The girls also worked in the laundry, sorting pillowcases for the ironing machine. They learned to sort masses of baby linens. They worked in the addressograph center of the hospital.

Mrs. Doom doesn't hold up the program as a miracle solution for the problems of mentally retarded teen-agers.

"But," she said, "It is one way to keep these children of limited mental capacity from despair—and to make their families happier as they themselves are happier."

Virginia Man Questioned In Family Killing

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP)—A 21-year-old sawmill worker who, police said, blurted out a story of killing the Carroll Jackson family of Louisa County, was being intensively questioned Sunday night.

City Police Lt. C. C. Brennan said the questioning thus far had produced "nothing promising."

He said the man later vigorously denied any part in the slaying of the four members of the Jackson family in January, 1959.

Joining in the questioning were two FBI agents and State Police investigators.

The suspect was arrested on a downtown Fredericksburg street at 7:50 p. m. Sunday on a complaint he was damaging auto radio aerials. He was charged with destroying private property, disturbing the peace and being drunk.

Police said that when the man was brought to headquarters he told them a story of killing the Jacksons because he became angry at the way they passed him on the road.

Officers said he told them, among other things, that he shot Jackson and used a stocking to strangle Jackson's wife, Mildred.

After recounting the story, an officer said, the suspect "fell to pieces." He was taken to a hospital and it was there that he changed his story and denied any part in the slayings.

After examination by a physician, the man was returned to police headquarters for further questioning.

Challenge Is Week's Theme

"Engineering's Great Challenge — The 1960s" was the theme for the 1960 National Engineers' Week which was observed during the past week, according to William Barger, local chairman of the event.

John I. Coleman, president of the Cumberland Chapter of Professional Engineers, sponsors of the week, said the theme was chosen "as part of a broad program to bring home to our young people the importance of obtaining the kind of sound and comprehensive background that will enable them to participate fully in the coming decade."

Mr. Barger added "the decade of the 1960s will almost surely see men setting foot on the moon and unleashing a flood of scientific and technical creativeness on the surface of our planet."

The local chapter is composed of 25 engineers of the tri-state area. Mr. Coleman and members of the Engineers' Week committee have carried out an extensive local observance of this national week.

Members of the chapter have been talking to local high school groups concerning advantages of an engineering career, as well as publicizing the accomplishments of the engineering profession.

MYF Donates To Goodwill

The Cumberland sub-district of the Methodist Youth Fellowship met last week in Ridgeley and turned over its collection of discarded clothing, shoes, furniture and appliances to Goodwill Industries.

The Hagerstown Goodwill Industries, Inc., reported that 335 bags, plus seven pieces of furniture and five appliances were turned in last week. These contributions will be reconditioned in the Goodwill workshops and sold in Goodwill stores. Most of the proceeds go toward payrolls for handicapped workers.

The Cumberland sub-district is headed by Raymond G. Mull, 37 Somerville Avenue. Their counselor is Rev. Louis Emerick of 120 Grand Avenue.

Other MYF groups which have bags of material which can be turned over to the industries may call at 107 Virginia Avenue here for a truck pickup, or may take the material to the store.

Tawes Will Sign Driver License Reregistration Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes says he will sign into law a bill requiring Maryland motorists to renew their driving licenses every two years.

The House completed action on the measure Saturday by a vote of 80-30. Maryland presently is the only state where licenses are permanent unless revoked for traffic violations.

The state is now in the final year of a three-year reregistration of drivers — the first since 1937.

Under the new legislation, drivers born in even-numbered years will renew their licenses starting in 1962 and those born in odd-numbered years in 1963. Renewal applications will be due during the month of the driver's birthday and will cost $2.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the House Motor Vehicles Committee, said the bill was intended for "housekeeping" purposes rather than for revenue.

Silver said the current reregistration has revealed that 38 per cent of the records at the Department of Motor Vehicles are obsolete.

The baby was born to Crown Princess Michiko, daughter of a flour mill executive, on Feb. 23.

Virginia Man Questioned In Family Killing

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —A 21-year-old sawmill worker who, police said, blurted out a story of killing the Carroll Jackson family of Louisa County, was being intensively questioned Sunday night.

City Police Lt. C. C. Brennan said the questioning thus far had produced "nothing promising."

He said the man later vigorously denied any part in the slaying of the four members of the Jackson family in January, 1959.

Joining in the questioning were two FBI agents and State Police investigators.

The suspect was arrested on a downtown Fredericksburg street at 7:50 p. m. Sunday on a complaint he was damaging auto radio aerials. He was charged with destroying private property, disturbing the peace and being drunk.

Police said that when the man was brought to headquarters he told them a story of killing the Jacksons because he became angry at the way they passed him on the road.

Officers said he told them, among other things, that he shot Jackson and used a stocking to strangle Jackson's wife, Mildred.

After recounting the story, an officer said, the suspect "fell to pieces." He was taken to a hospital and it was there that he changed his story and denied any part in the slayings.

After examination by a physician, the man was returned to police headquarters for further questioning.

Challenge Is Week's Theme

"Engineering's Great Challenge — The 1960s" was the theme for the 1960 National Engineers' Week which was observed during the past week, according to William Barger, local chairman of the event.

John I. Coleman, president of the Cumberland Chapter of Professional Engineers, sponsors of the week, said the theme was chosen "as part of a broad program to bring home to our young people the importance of obtaining the kind of sound and comprehensive background that will enable them to participate fully in the coming decade."

Mr. Barger added "the decade of the 1960s will almost surely see men setting foot on the moon and unleashing a flood of scientific and technical creativeness on the surface of our planet."

The local chapter is composed of 25 engineers of the tri-state area. Mr. Coleman and members of the Engineers' Week committee have carried out an extensive local observance of this national week.

Members of the chapter have been talking to local high school groups concerning advantages of an engineering career, as well as publicizing the accomplishments of the engineering profession.

MYF Donates To Goodwill

The Cumberland sub-district of the Methodist Youth Fellowship met last week in Ridgeley and turned over its collection of discarded clothing, shoes, furniture and appliances to Goodwill Industries.

These contributions will be reconditioned in the Goodwill workshops and sold in Goodwill stores. Most of the proceeds go toward payrolls for handicapped workers.

The Cumberland sub-district is headed by Raymond G. Mull, 37 Somerville Avenue. Their counselor is Rev. Louis Emerick of 120 Grand Avenue.

Other MYF groups which have bags of material which can be turned over to the industries may call at 107 Virginia Avenue here for a truck pickup, or may take the material to the store.

Tawes Will Sign Driver License Reregistration Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes says he will sign into law a bill requiring Maryland motorists to renew their driving licenses every two years.

The House completed action on the measure Saturday by a vote of 80-30. Maryland presently is the only state where licenses are permanent unless revoked for traffic violations.

The state is now in the final year of a three-year reregistration of drivers — the first since 1937.

Under the new legislation, drivers born in even-numbered years will renew their licenses starting in 1962 and those born in odd-numbered years in 1963. Renewal applications will be due during the month of the driver's birthday and will cost $2.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the House Motor Vehicles Committee, said the bill was intended for "housekeeping" purposes rather than for revenue.

Silver said the current reregistration has revealed that 38 per cent of the records at the Department of Motor Vehicles are obsolete.

New Industry Considered At Manheim Site

Navy Interested In Old Quarries

ROWLESBURG — The possibility of establishing an industry at the Manheim plant, owned and formerly operated by the Alpha Portland Cement Company of Easton, Pa., was discussed at a recent dinner meeting of the Rowlesburg Lions Club.

Heading the discussion were J. W. Ruby, of Arthurdale and Morgantown, and Charles V. Wehner, of Kingwood.

The Alpha Portland firm suspended operations at Manheim in July 1958 and withdrew operation facilities from the site late in December 1958.

Club officials said it is definitely known that the U. S. Navy has been interested in the large underground quarries or mines as a storage facility. Negotiations cannot be completed between the prospective purchasers and the owners until a decision is reached by the Navy.

Alpha holdings besides the large underground mine, plant, storage building, office and storeroom which also houses the post office, clubhouse and community building, also includes four double dwelling houses and 32 single dwellings.

In case a business deal is made and the industrial company that Ruby represents secures possession of the Alpha holdings at Manheim, it is understood that various small industries will be established. Eventually, there would be employment for approximately 100 persons.

Pulp, Paper Firm To Pay Dividend

LUKE—The board of directors of West Virginia Pulp and Paper, at a meeting in New York declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share on the company's common stock.

The dividend is payable April 1 to stockholders of record at 3 p.m. March 7.

Although the dollar volume of sales reached the highest level of any first quarter in its history, West Virginia Pulp and Paper reported a decline in earnings for the first three months of fiscal 1960, ended January 31.

The company reported sales of $56,871,000 for the first quarter of the current year, exceeding by more than $1.3 million the previous high of $55,502,000 reached in the first quarter of 1959. Net earnings, however, declined 12 per cent from $2,757,000 or 52 cents a share for the first quarter of 1959, to $2,414,000 or 45 cents a share for the quarter just ended.

Despite an active demand for most products, David L. Luke, president, said first quarter earnings suffered because prices, particularly in the utilitarian segment of the industry, fell far short of reflecting increases in costs. He noted that a considerable degree of excess capacity still existing in the industry has created a vigorously competitive atmosphere, which may continue for some time to come.

Encephalitis Is Fatal To Everett Boy

EVERETT, Pa. — The death of a 12-year-old Bedford County boy in Bedford County Memorial Hospital has been diagnosed as being attributed to encephalitis.

The victim of the deadly disease on Friday was Charles Eugene Rose, son of Charles A. and Mary Jean (Cornell) Rose. He was a student in the seventh grade at Everett Southern Joint High School.

Dr. John E. Hartle of Everett said that the Rose boy first became seriously ill on Monday and that the first manifestations of his illness indicated influenza. It became apparent by mid-day on Tuesday that a brain infection had set in. Encephalitis, sometimes known as sleeping sickness, involves inflammation of the brain.

There are a number of varieties of encephalitis, doctors report. An autopsy report together with tissue specimens has been sent to an Altoona pathologist. The results of the tissue examination are not expected to be available for about three weeks.

Dr. Hartle emphasized that there was no cause for alarm about any possible epidemic of the disease in the area such as occurred last year in New Jersey. He pointed out that the epidemic variety of encephalitis is carried by mosquitoes and that it was highly unlikely that young Rose was bitten by a mosquito in the middle of winter.

This was the first known case of the disease or death resulting from it in the county within memory. As the result of recent serious outbreaks in New Jersey and other sections of the nation, the U.S. Public Health Service has stepped up precautionary efforts against the killer.

New Industry Considered At Manheim Site

Navy Interested In Old Quarries

ROWLESBURG — The possibility of establishing an industry at the Manheim plant, owned and formerly operated by the Alpha Portland Cement Company of Easton, Pa., was discussed at a recent dinner meeting of the Rowlesburg Lions Club.

Heading the discussion were J. W. Ruby, of Arthurdale and Morgantown, and Charles V. Wehner, of Kingwood.

The Alpha Portland firm suspended operations at Manheim in July 1958 and withdrew operation facilities from the site late in December 1958.

Club officials said it is definitely known that the U. S. Navy has been interested in the large underground quarries or mines as a storage facility. Negotiations cannot be completed between the prospective purchasers and the owners until a decision is reached by the Navy.

Alpha holdings besides the large underground mine, plant, storage building, office and storeroom which also houses the post office, clubhouse and community building, also includes four double dwelling houses and 32 single dwellings.

In case a business deal is made and the industrial company that Ruby represents secures possession of the Alpha holdings at Manheim, it is understood that various small industries will be established. Eventually, there would be employment for approximately 100 persons.

Pulp, Paper Firm To Pay Dividend

LUKE—The board of directors of West Virginia Pulp and Paper, at a meeting in New York declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share on the company's common stock.

The dividend is payable April 1 to stockholders of record at 3 p.m. March 7.

Although the dollar volume of sales reached the highest level of any first quarter in its history, West Virginia Pulp and Paper reported a decline in earnings for the first three months of fiscal 1960, ended January 31.

The company reported sales of $56,871,000 for the first quarter of the current year, exceeding by more than $1.3 million the previous high of $55,502,000 reached in the first quarter of 1959. Net earnings, however, declined 12 per cent from $2,757,000 or 52 cents a share for the first quarter of 1959, to $2,414,000 or 45 cents a share for the quarter just ended.

Despite an active demand for most products, David L. Luke, president, said first quarter earnings suffered because prices, particularly in the utilitarian segment of the industry, fell far short of reflecting increases in costs. He noted that a considerable degree of excess capacity still existing in the industry has created a vigorously competitive atmosphere, which may continue for some time to come.

Encephalitis Is Fatal To Everett Boy

EVERETT, Pa. — The death of a 12-year-old Bedford County boy in Bedford County Memorial Hospital has been diagnosed as being attributed to encephalitis.

The victim of the deadly disease on Friday was Charles Eugene Rose, son of Charles A. and Mary Jean (Cornell) Rose. He was a student in the seventh grade at Everett Southern Joint High School.

Dr. John E. Hartle of Everett said that the Rose boy first became seriously ill on Monday and that the first manifestations of his illness indicated influenza. It became apparent by mid-day on Tuesday that a brain infection had set in. Encephalitis, sometimes known as sleeping sickness, involves inflammation of the brain.

There are a number of varieties of encephalitis, doctors report. An autopsy report together with tissue specimens has been sent to an Altoona pathologist. The results of the tissue examination are not expected to be available for about three weeks.

Dr. Hartle emphasized that there was no cause for alarm about any possible epidemic of the disease in the area such as occurred last year in New Jersey. He pointed out that the epidemic variety of encephalitis is carried by mosquitoes and that it was highly unlikely that young Rose was bitten by a mosquito in the middle of winter.

This was the first known case of the disease or death resulting from it in the county within memory. As the result of recent serious outbreaks in New Jersey and other sections of the nation, the U.S. Public Health Service has stepped up precautionary efforts against the killer.

Table Tennis Champs Named

FROSTBURG — Earl F. Brain, principal of Beall Elementary School, has announced that Gerald Groves, 89 West College Avenue, and Ann Bivins, 120 Mt. Pleasant Street, recently won Harvard Gold medals in the seventh grade boys' and girl's championships in the Harvard table tennis tournament just concluded at the school.

Brain said both winners showed fine table tennis techniques as they drove through hard fought preliminary matches defeating their respective runners-up in fast moving final matches.

Gerald Grove, winner of the boys crown, defeated Greg Harper for the championship, while Ann Bivins, girls winners, defeated Betty Sigler.

Harvard table tennis tournament gold medals and inscribed tournament award certificates will be presented to both winners at a special award presentation ceremony. The names of both winners in the local contest have been permanently recorded in Harvard's Book of Champions. This book contains the names of all winners in Harvard tournaments held throughout the nation.

Chief Praises Shaft Firemen

FROSTBURG—William Landefeld, chief of the fire company at Shaft, has released a report on activities of the company during the recent snow storm.

Chief Landefeld pointed out that electricity was off in the community for 37 hours at which time many persons were without heat in their homes and had no lights. Kerosene lamps and candles were used but despite this added fire hazard there were no fire alarms.

Due to the fact that the fire siren could not be operated, firemen remained on duty at the station 24 hours a day so that in case a fire was reported, sirens on the trucks could be used to call the firemen.

Two way communication was also maintained by use of two-way radio with the Frostburg Firemen's Civil Defense Unit.

Landfeld expressed his appreciation to all members of the department who stood by during the emergency.

"Although they were not needed," he said, "many people appreciate the fact that they were ready to respond in case of any kind of trouble."

Soaking The Rich: But Who's Rich?

There are certain economic laws that operate inexorably, even when they seem to be battered beyond recognition and some of the naive are convinced they have been repealed.

Contemplation of the increasing and appalling mess caused by political efforts to solve the farm problem leads to a realization that the law of supply and demand is still doing business at the old stand, although political fixers have devised so many circumventive schemes that it is impossible to keep track of them.

Another durable old principle is the law of diminishing returns, which is visibly and materially affecting the process of levying income taxes. It is being realized that in some cases the excessively high rates bring in less revenue than a moderate levy would produce.

Roswell Magill, former Under Secretary of the Treasury, says: "If all the higher rates above 20 per cent were eliminated, we would lose only 13 per cent of the present revenue from the individual income tax."

All brackets over 20 per cent yield $4 or $5 billion annually, and realistic economists figure that if that much of a reserve were plowed into industry, for purchasing needed equipment, modernizing plants and employing more persons, there would be vastly increased production, and the total tax take — resulting from the 20 per cent bracket alone — would exceed the amount now collected from the total income tax structure.

Why don't tax fixers, perennially tinkering with the schedules, admit this and act accordingly? Because the theory of "soaking the rich" is the line of least resistance and more easily sold to the voters than a scientific and realistic system.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Chessman Case

The most astonishing item in the Chessman case is the general avoidance of mention of the crimes that Caryl Chessman committed. In all that is said about this man, little comment is upon the fact that he committed rape, was a sex pervert, a robber, a kidnaper, a sadist and was arrested for these crimes.

Mrs. Ruth Shaw, mother of one of the girls he raped, had this to say:

> "My daughter, Mary Alice, was only 17 when he kidnaped her, tore her clothes off of her and for four endless hours terrified her, hurt her, sadistically abused her and caused her to lose her mind and life among normal human beings."

Chessman's criminal record started in 1937 and ended with his apprehension in 1948. Why the State Department should violate the Constitution of the United States to seek a reprieve from the judgment of the courts for such a person can only be explained by a total negation of the sanction of law in our civilization. The excuse that the rapist, Chessman, has become a hero to certain elements in South America, only reflects upon those elements; it must not be permitted to serve as a precedent for dictated judicial procedure. Else, our courts crumble into dust and our laws become the whim of our rulers.

Governor Pat Brown of California has raised an altogether false issue, namely, capital punishment. Whether capital punishment is morally correct or not is a matter of private conscience. If the Governor said that it is against his conscience to permit anyone, even a murderer or a rapist or a kidnaper, to be given the death penalty and that as a moral sanction, he, the governor, will pardon or reprieve such persons, that is his privilege and he must accept the consequences of his decision. But Governor Brown did not say that. What he did say was:

"I was informed that there could be concern in this matter in view of President Eisenhower's trip. That moved me more than anything else."

The history of the reprieve seems to be that Richard R. Rogan, Chief Deputy Attorney General of California, solicited the support of the Federal government for aid for a reprieve for Chessman. This was done despite the fact that Chessman was tried in California courts and he is a California convict. Roy R. Rubottom Jr., in charge of the Inter-American Desk of the State Department, sent a telegram to Governor Brown suggesting the reprieve.

It is not usual in State Department procedure for a man on Rubottom's level to send such a message, with its political connotations, without the approval of an Under Secretary of State or the Secretary himself. It is to be presumed that Rubottom submitted his telegram to his superiors and that they approved. Lincoln White, press officer of the State Department, is reported to have said that Under Secretary Douglas Dillon approved the Rubottom telegram and that a copy was sent to the White House.

The Constitution of the United States in no place authorizes the President or the State Department to dictate the course of judicial procedure of any State. On the contrary, the Constitution specifies in the Tenth Amendment:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas v. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

> "This Amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act . . ."

The Constitution is flexible but it is not so flexible that it abolishes itself by Executive judgment. In fact in the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corporation v. United States), the Court held:

". . . Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers . . ."

Chessman, the rapist, raises the constitutional issue of Federal interference in a State case.

President Of Chile Will Discuss Arms Reduction With Eisenhower

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In Chile today, President Eisenhower will be conferring with a bachelor-professor who agrees with most of what he says, but disagrees with much of what he does.

President Jorge Alessandri is an Italo-Chilean whose father also served as president, and who has spent most of his life as a professor of mathematics. In a country which has used up its wealth of copper and nitrate about as fast as the United States used up its gold and silver—and through some of the same companies—Alessandri has had to watch every penny of Chilean income.

Although he is a budget balancer, he is primarily a crusader against arms. Time after time he has issued appeals to American nations to curtail their arms spending. The arms race, he says, only builds up dictators and creates dissension and suspicion.

So the statements made by Eisenhower in Rio de Janeiro promising more spending in Latin America through less money spent on arms, must appeal to President Alessandri. However, on the very same day Ike made this speech for Latin-American consumption, his own Defense Department published the amounts of money spent on arms to Latin America. Hitherto, the figures had been secret.

Even Castro Got Arms

When finally published, they showed that we were spending one-third more money for arms to Latin America than we did last year. These arms were shipped despite Section 105 of the Mutual Security Act which provides that the aggregate funds for 1960 to Latin America shall not exceed those in 1959.

And while Eisenhower was telling Lating America that we would cut down on arms, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was telling the Senate:

"This arms increase to Latin America is in flagrant violation of the Defense Department's pledges to Congress and the stipulation of Congress.

"Furthermore," said Morse, "the Defense Department even sent arms to Cuba at the very same time Fidel Castro was reviling the United States and seizing American property. It sent arms despite repeated assurances from the State Department to the Senate that arms would not be shipped to Castro."

When President Alessandri confers with Eisenhower he is certain to emphasize once again the need for disarmament. But since the Chilean President reads the newspapers, he is certain to wonder whether the President of the United States, in talking about arms reduction, really knows what his own Defense Department is doing.

Why Less Arms

Here are some of the reasons why President Alessandri, together with ex-President Pepi Figueres of Costa Rica, President Betancourt of Venezuela, and other Latin leaders all urge less arms for Latin America.

Peru and Ecuador — These two countries have been at odds for a long time over a border dispute. They don't speak to each other. Other American nations have had to intervene vigorously to prevent war. Despite this, the U.S. naval mission in Peru urged Peru to buy more submarines from the United States, and these subs were built by Electric Boat at Groton, Conn.

Simultaneously the U.S. air attache in Ecuador urged that country to buy more U.S. jet fighters. According to Chancellor F. D. Murphy of the University of Kansas, Ecuador has now bought enough jet fighters from the United States to support the entire Ecuadorian school system for one whole year.

Nicaragua and Costa Rica — These two countries have been on the verge of conflict several times, with the Pan American Union once rushing a special plane of ambassadors to prevent war. Yet the United States has sold a large supply of arms to Nicaragua, beginning during the Truman administration when Gen. Harry Vaughan, the White House military aide, went out of his way to induce arms shipments to dictator Somoza.

Few shipments have gone to Costa Rica, because that country doesn't believe in arms and has practically no army. The Costa Rican government has diverted arms money to building up its social economy.

Brazil and Argentina — These two countries are getting along better now. However, some years ago the U.S. Navy sold cruisers to Argentina. Immediately Brazil demanded the same number of cruisers. Thus a larger army or navy in one Latin country leads to more arms in another.

Dominican Republic — Army shipments have so solidified dictators, such as Generalissimo Trujillo, that it makes for tyrannical governments, revolutions, and sometimes chaos when the dictators fall. The present trouble in the Dominican Republic is a case in point. Yet the Defense Department, despite a pledge to the contrary, sent $1,089,000 in arms to Trujillo in fiscal year 1959 and is sending $445,000 in 1960.

That's why when President Alessandri of Chile talks to Ike, he's likely to remain skeptical.

American Analysts See Stormy Summit Meeting

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The best American analysts of Soviet behavior are now forecasting a rough, stormy, and dangerous meeting at the summit.

This is because Nikita S. Khrushchev has lately been telling all and sundry that he is not going to be distracted from talking about Berlin by discussions of other topics, such as disarmament. He has also given numerous indications that he is unwilling to go on merely talking about Berlin for an indefinite period, at a whole succession of meetings at the summit. Before long, he keeps hinting, he will have to act.

Much more light will be shed on Khrushchev's real intentions by his behavior in Paris, during his visit to Gen. de Gaulle next month. Perhaps the present reading of the signs will then be reversed. One can only hope so, for there will be some breathlessly tense moments if Khrushchev really means to offer President Eisenhower and the other Western leaders the choice between giving him what he wants at Berlin during the summit conference, or stopping him from taking what he wants after the conference ends.

It may be, of course, that Khrushchev only means to make the Western leaders think that this is the choice which confronts them. He is in an ideal situation, after all, to test the nerves of the West to the uttermost limit without exposing or commiting himself in the least. On the basis of all the evidence produced by the test of nerves, he can then decide whether or not to risk unilateral action at Berlin.

In any case, it now appears probably that Khrushchev will use the tactic of intimidation instead of the tactic of sweet reasonableness in the crucial next round of the unending Berlin crisis. This is not surprising, either, when you consider how much he has already gained, by using the tactic of intimidation in the earlier rounds.

He precipitated the crisis in November, 1958, by suddenly roaring that the perfectly tranquil, long unaltered situation in Berlin was "intolerable," and threatening to use force to make his own improvements. By these roars, he soon obtained Western agreement to negotiate about Berlin, despite the fact that the allegedly "intolerable" Berlin situation was solemnly guaranteed by the Kremlin's own pledges and was perfectly satisfactory to the West.

The ensuing, protracted Foreign Ministers' meeting at Geneva met and ran its whole course in the drumfire of Khrushchev menaces. For him, the conference served the useful purpose of disclosing the Western allies' first "fallback" position. When he had gained this valuable information, Khrushchev called the Geneva rally to grind to a halt, still without withdrawing his ministers. And by this simple device, he obtained his invitation from President Eisenhower to visit the United States.

In this country, for once in a day, he had to do something more than shout threats to get what he wanted next. He was forced to promise the President that there would be no time-deadline for action on the Berlin problem. In this very limited way, he had to say that his Berlin demands did not constitute an ultimatum to the West. But for this minor concession he obtained consent to the forthcoming summit meeting. And he also obtained a major dividend that he perhaps did not expect, in the form of an acute attack of euphoria infecting many of the highest American policy-makers.

Unfortunately, a specified time-deadline is by no means a necessity for the more ingenious users of ultimatums. If you can make your adversary believe you are going to take the action he fears before very long, you do not have to be explicit about the date. The atmosphere of ultimatum is more important than the language. Indeed, if the atmosphere exists, the document itself can be quite unnecessary.

What Khrushchev now seems to be doing is creating the atmosphere of ultimatum, in preparation for the summit meeting in May. As of today, moreover, this appears to be an exceedingly shrewd thing to do. The Western allies, after fifteen long months of looking at the ugly Berlin problem, have not yet agreed on what to do about the problem if worst comes to worst. The divergences are bound to deepen as Western apprehensions mount.

This can probably be prevented, or even if not prevented it will matter decisively, if President Eisenhower quickly asserts his leadership with iron firmness. But as yet, no such Presidential self-assertion seems to be in prospect.

PUBLIC INDIFFERENT — The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization is intensifying its drive to get more home owners to build atomic fall-out shelters, but is meeting with large doses of public apathy.

As a part of its plan to educate the public to the need for this kind of protection in the event of nuclear war, the OCDM has constructed a model home-type fall-out shelter on the outskirts of Washington. Eventually, it will build two models in each of the 50 states.

The Washington structure, attached to a $17,500 house, cost $1,500, but less luxurious accomodations can be built for $150 to $300. Few visitors have taken the trouble to inspect the structure. There is a guest book, sparsely used. One signer gave his address as "77 Sunset Strip."

OCDM distributes a booklet on fall-out danger to visitors at their "exhibit home." "Every family should have one," OCDM stresses in the brochure.

It points out that while the United States does not want war, we don't know whether there will be one. Be prepared, the booklet warns. You may never need a shelter, but in an emergency it would be "priceless—as priceless as your life."

Actually, OCDM estimates that thousands of American home owners already have built shelters, but some don't want anyone else to know. "They think they might have too many visitors, or be besieged in an emergency," OCDM says, adding "that's just human nature."

New Drugs Are Available For Angina Pectoris

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Nitroglycerin is the standard remedy for angina pectoris. The victim slips a tablet under the tongue whenever chest pain develops. Relief is rapid and the drug is eliminated from the blood within a few minutes. A second or third tablet may be needed should distress recur.

Some drugs have a more prolonged dilating action than does nitroglycerin. These products are aimed at reducing the need for taking a dozen nitroglycerin tablets every day to control the attacks. But they are not always this successful because—by prolonging their action—some potency is lost. As a result they may not be strong enough to prevent chest pain from occurring after exertion or an emotional upheaval.

MAO inhibitors are the latest remedies. They are reported to lessen the frequency of attacks and allow some victims to walk farther without developing pain. These agents are new and all the hazards of prolonged usage are not known. As a result they should be taken only under the watchful eye of a physician.

Angina pectoris is chest pain coming from a poorly nourished heart muscle. The usual cause is thickening or narrowing of the coronary arteries that supply the heart muscle with blood. The circulation usually is adequate when the victim is quiet, and at peace with the world.

But the opening through the vessel is too small to carry the blood needed to nourish the old ticker when the heart is forced to pump harder because of over-exertion or anxiety. The muscle goes into a painful rebellion that is described as a sense of pressure, constriction, or a burning sensation beneath the breastbone. This type of discomfort should serve as a warning that the heart is not up to par. Angina may be a prelude to a heart attack. Need more be said?

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on angina pectoris if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SMOKING

D. R. writes: If a mother smokes during pregnancy, will the children became cancerous? I remember way back when this disease was almost unknown and women did not smoke.

REPLY

There is no proof that the offspring of women who smoke are more likely to develop cancer. The disease has existed since the beginning of man but nowadays we hear more about it because a greater number of people are living to the cancer age.

CATARACT GROWTH

C. F. writes: How long does it take cataracts to grow? Two years ago, when I had my eyes examined for a change in reading glasses, nothing was said about cataracts but now I have them in both eyes.

REPLY

There is a beginning for every disease. Even though cataracts develop slowly, I assume they were first detected at the last examination.

CRYING GIRL

Mrs. J. V. writes: Why should a 9 year old girl be unhappy and cry all the time?

REPLY

She is abnormally depressed and may be in need of sympathetic and understanding care. Talk to your physician alone. He may suggest psychiatric care.

EGGS CAUSE DISTRESS

M. M. writes: What would cause terrible pains in the belly after eating eggs?

REPLY

Allergy is the commonest cause unless the bowel is spastic and the eating of eggs is purely coincidental. In such instances, pain results from the effects on the bowel of nervousness, tension, or fatigue.

DIGESTION AND GIRDLES

F. J. F. writes: Does wearing tight girdle interfer with digestion?

REPLY

No, considering the number of stout women who wear their girdles tight.

TOMORROW: The last decade's mortality rates.

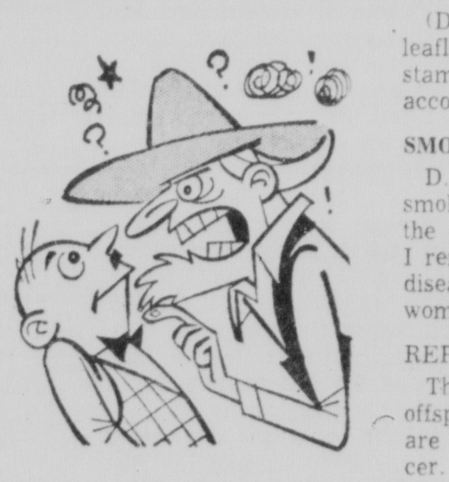
To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When it came to cussing, farmer Obediah took the cake. People from all over came to marvel at his ability to cuss for 15 minutes at a stretch without so much as taking time out to bite off a chaw of terbakky.

One stormy afternoon word went around that the brand new bakery barn had collapsed, burying Obediah's new 1960 station wagon. Everybody rushed over to hear what promised to be a world's record in continuous profanity. The extent of the misfortune proved too much for him; however. He shook his head and announced, "You'll have to excuse me, folks. I just cannot cuss enough to do justice to the occasion."



A TV comic had taken up ice skating between bouts with John Barleycorn, and progressed to the point where he boasted about his figure 8s. "That's the simplest trick on ice," scoffed his producer. "Kids do it every day."

"Not the way I do it," said the comic. "I make a 5 with one foot and 3 with the other."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

A speech was made in Buffalo by Robert F. Kennedy. He is a younger member of a rich, ambitious family. Young Robert did excellent work as counsel to the McClellan Committee in lifting the wet rocks off members of crime syndicates, the Mafia, and labor crooks. In his speech, he called upon America to organize a National Crime Commission. At first thought, it sounded like an excellent idea.

I'm interested in police work. I grew up on police pay. Any measure that cements the ratholes through which criminals dart in and out of society is, in my opinion, a good one. However, after reading the Kennedy speech, I began to wonder what he would do with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The work of any National Crime Commission would have to overlap that of the FBI.

Please do not count me among those writers who genuflect every time the FBI is mentioned. The Federal Bureau is composed of humans and those humans have made mistakes. Beauts. The FBI is far from perfect, but under the same assessment, it is the best law enforcement agency in the world. It purrs so quietly that even the British M.I.5, the French Surete, and the Russian OGPU cannot hear it operate.

We already have a National Crime Commission. That's it. There are 6,000 members of the FBI spread across 50 states and Puerto Rico. Their work is secret and unhampered. Often, when they make a big catch, there is no publicity at all. Sometimes, the Bureau tracks the criminal and then throws the arrest and the public bows to the local police department.

My father, a long-time police lieutenant, went through the FBI offices two summers ago. He came back shaking his head. I said: "Well, what do you think?"

That, he said, is the most efficient police organization I've ever seen and I've seen some pretty good ones." He was silent a moment and then he said: "I don't know how they keep the politicians off their necks, but that's the secret of police efficiency."

It is. That is why, under Police Commissioner Stephen Kennedy, the New York Department is more efficient now than ever before. The 23,000 men no longer look to City Hall for orders or for favors. A National Crime Commission, composed of intelligent citizens, would have to cross wires with the FBI because they would both be after the same criminals.

John Edgar Hoover has said that he would rather see the FBI disbanded than to be beholden to a Crime Commission. It isn't within his power to disband the Bureau, but one must agree that it would be much less of an organization with two bosses than one.

Even if the proposed crime commission remained separate and independent, it would have to summon witnesses who would be in the active files of the FBI. This was the weakness in the New York State Crime Commission, which ran wild following criminals and tracked its muddy feet across local police departments and state enforcement agencies until both sides were furious.

The FBI has averaged 700 felons per year bagged, not for themselves, but for local police departments. Local police departments reciprocate by working quietly with Special Agents. They not only respect the Bureau, but send their best men to the FBI academy to study advanced police work.

Policemen all over the country study the Bureau's Ten Most Wanted List and, in the past nine years, 113 of them were arrested. Of these, 82 were wanted by city police departments.

This isn't all. The FBI also works in the field of counter-espionage, sabotage, communism-in-government, criminal identification, and other silent projects. Two agencies working the same side of the street would hardly be silent. In time, the charges and counter-charges between them would open a brand new life for the big criminals.

Last year, the FBI conducted 184,933 scientific examinations of evidence for local police departments all over the country. The agents file 20,000 new sets of fingerprints each day to go with the 154,000,000 already tabulated. The system is so nicely balanced that it can be upset by anyone in a position of authority who chooses to intrude.

I'm opposed to that. Good police work is not a commodity we can buy. It begins with integrity, intelligence and independence, three words that start with the letter I. The fourth I is a personal and political pronoun and should be kept out. . .

Soaking The Rich: But Who's Rich?

There are certain economic laws that operate inexorably, even when they seem to be battered beyond recognition and some of the naive are convinced they have been repealed.

Contemplation of the increasing and appalling mess caused by political efforts to solve the farm problem leads to a realization that the law of supply and demand is still doing business at the old stand, although political fixers have devised so many circumventive schemes that it is impossible to keep track of them.

Another durable old principle is the law of diminishing returns, which is visibly and materially affecting the process of levying income taxes. It is being realized that in some cases the excessively high rates bring in less revenue than a moderate levy would produce.

Roswell Magill, former Under Secretary of the Treasury, says: "If all the higher rates above 20 per cent were eliminated, we would lose only 13 per cent of the present revenue from the individual income tax."

All brackets over 20 per cent yield $4 or $5 billion annually, and realistic economists figure that if that much of a reserve were plowed into industry, for purchasing needed equipment, modernizing plants and employing more persons, there would be vastly increased production, and the total tax take — resulting from the 20 per cent bracket alone — would exceed the amount now collected from the total income tax structure.

Why don't tax fixers, perennially tinkering with the schedules, admit this and act accordingly? Because the theory of "soaking the rich" is the line of least resistance and more easily sold to the voters than a scientific and realistic system.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Chessman Case

The most astonishing item in the Chessman case is the general avoidance of mention of the crimes that Caryl Chessman committed. In all that is said about this man, little comment is upon the fact that he committed rape, was a sex pervert, a robber, a kidnaper, a sadist and was arrested for these crimes.

Mrs. Ruth Shaw, mother of one of the girls he raped, had this to say:

> "My daughter, Mary Alice, was only 17 when he kidnaped her, tore her clothes off of her and for four endless hours terrified her, hurt her, sadistically abused her and caused her to lose her mind and life among normal human beings."

Chessman's criminal record started in 1937 and ended with his apprehension in 1948. Why the State Department should violate the Constitution of the United States to seek a reprieve from the judgment of the courts for such a person can only be explained by a total negation of the sanction of law in our civilization. The excuse that the rapist, Chessman, has become a hero to certain elements in South America, only reflects upon those elements; it must not be permitted to serve as a precedent for dictated judicial procedure. Else, our courts crumble into dust and our laws become the whim of our rulers.

Governor Pat Brown of California has raised an altogether false issue, namely, capital punishment. Whether capital punishment is morally correct or not is a matter of private conscience. If the Governor said that it is against his conscience to permit anyone, even a murderer or a rapist or a kidnaper, to be given the death penalty and that as a moral sanction, he, the governor, will pardon or reprieve such persons, that is his privilege and he must accept the consequences of his decision. But Governor Brown did not say that. What he did say was:

"I was informed that there could be concern in this matter in view of President Eisenhower's trip. That moved me more than anything else."

The history of the reprieve seems to be that Richard R. Rogan, Chief Deputy Attorney General of California, solicited the support of the Federal government for aid for a reprieve for Chessman. This was done despite the fact that Chessman was tried in California courts and he is a California convict. Roy R. Rubottom Jr., in charge of the Inter-American Desk of the State Department, sent a telegram to Governor Brown suggesting the reprieve.

It is not usual in State Department procedure for a man on Rubottom's level to send such a message, with its political connotations, without the approval of an Under Secretary of State or the Secretary himself. It is to be presumed that Rubottom submitted his telegram to his superiors and that they approved. Lincoln White, press officer of the State Department, is reported to have said that Under Secretary Douglas Dillon approved the Rubottom telegram and that a copy was sent to the White House.

The Constitution of the United States in no place authorizes the President or the State Department to dictate the course of judicial procedure of any State. On the contrary, the Constitution specifies in the Tenth Amendment:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas v. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

> "This Amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act . . ."

The Constitution is flexible but it is not so flexible that it abolishes itself by Executive judgment. In fact in the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corporation v. United States), the Court held:

". . . Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers . . ."

Chessman, the rapist, raises the constitutional issue of Federal interference in a State case.

President Of Chile Will Discuss Arms Reduction With Eisenhower

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In Chile today, President Eisenhower will be conferring with a bachelor-professor who agrees with most of what he says, but disagrees with much of what he does.

President Jorge Alessandri is an Italo-Chilean whose father also served as president, and who has spent most of his life as a professor of mathematics. In a country which has used up its wealth of copper and nitrate about as fast as the United States used up its gold and silver—and through some of the same companies—Alessandri has had to watch every penny of Chilean income.

Although he is a budget balancer, he is primarily a crusader against arms. Time after time he has issued appeals to American nations to curtail their arms spending. The arms race, he says, only builds up dictators and creates dissension and suspicion.

So the statements made by Eisenhower in Rio de Janeiro promising more spending in Latin America through less money spent on arms, must appeal to President Alessandri. However, on the very same day Ike made this speech for Latin-American consumption, his own Defense Department published the amounts of money spent on arms to Latin America. Hitherto, the figures had been secret.

Even Castro Got Arms

When finally published, they showed that we were spending one-third more money for arms to Latin America than we did last year. These arms were shipped despite Section 105 of the Mutual Security Act which provides that the aggregate funds for 1960 to Latin America shall not exceed those in 1959.

And while Eisenhower was telling Lating America that we would cut down on arms, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was telling the Senate:

"This arms increase to Latin America is in flagrant violation of the Defense Department's pledges to Congress and the stipulation of Congress.

"Furthermore," said Morse, "the Defense Department even sent arms to Cuba at the very same time Fidel Castro was reviling the United States and seizing American property. It sent arms despite repeated assurances from the State Department to the Senate that arms would not be shipped to Castro."

When President Alessandri confers with Eisenhower he is certain to emphasize once again the need for disarmament. But since the Chilean President reads the newspapers, he is certain to wonder whether the President of the United States, in talking about arms reduction, really knows what his own Defense Department is doing.

Why Less Arms

Here are some of the reasons why President Alessandri, together with ex-President Pepi Figueres of Costa Rica, President Betancourt of Venezuela, and other Latin leaders all urge less arms for Latin America.

Peru and Ecuador — These two countries have been at odds for a long time over a border dispute. They don't speak to each other. Other American nations have had to intervene vigorously to prevent war. Despite this, the U.S. naval mission in Peru urged Peru to buy more submarines from the United States, and these subs were built by Electric Boat at Groton, Conn.

Simultaneously the U.S. air attache in Ecuador urged that country to buy more U.S. jet fighters. According to Chancellor F. D. Murphy of the University of Kansas, Ecuador has now bought enough jet fighters from the United States to support the entire Ecuadorian school system for one whole year.

Nicaragua and Costa Rica — These two countries have been on the verge of conflict several times, with the Pan American Union once rushing a special plane of ambassadors to prevent war. Yet the United States has sold a large supply of arms to Nicaragua, beginning during the Truman administration when Gen. Harry Vaughan, the White House military aide, went out of his way to induce arms shipments to dictator Somoza.

Few shipments have gone to Costa Rica, because that country doesn't believe in arms and has practically no army. The Costa Rican government has diverted arms money to building up its social economy.

Brazil and Argentina — These two countries are getting along better now. However, some years ago the U.S. Navy sold cruisers to Argentina. Immediately Brazil demanded the same number of cruisers. Thus a larger army or navy in one Latin country leads to more arms in another.

Dominican Republic — Army shipments have so solidified dictators, such as Generalissimo Trujillo, that it makes for tyrannical governments, revolutions, and sometimes chaos when the dictators fall. The present trouble in the Dominican Republic is a case in point. Yet the Defense Department, despite a pledge to the contrary, sent $1,089,000 in arms to Trujillo in fiscal year 1959 and is sending $445,000 in 1960.

That's why when President Alessandri of Chile talks to Ike, he's likely to remain skeptical.

OCDM distributes a booklet on fall-out danger to visitors at their "exhibit home." "Every family should have one," OCDM stresses in the brochure.

It points out that while the United States does not want war, we don't know whether there will be one. Be prepared, the booklet warns. You may never need a shelter, but in an emergency it would be "priceless—as priceless as your life."

Actually, OCDM estimates that thousands of American home owners already have built shelters, but some don't want anyone else to know. "They think they might have too many visitors, or be besieged in an emergency," OCDM says, adding "that's just human nature."

New Drugs Are Available For Angina Pectoris

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Nitroglycerin is the standard remedy for angina pectoris. The victim slips a tablet under the tongue whenever chest pain develops. Relief is rapid and the drug is eliminated from the blood within a few minutes. A second or third tablet may be needed should distress recur.

Some drugs have a more prolonged dilating action than does nitroglycerin. These products are aimed at reducing the need for taking a dozen nitroglycerin tablets every day to control the attacks. But they are not always this successful because—by prolonging their action—some potency is lost. As a result they may not be strong enough to prevent chest pain from occurring after exertion or an emotional upheaval.

MAO inhibitors are the latest remedies. They are reported to lessen the frequency of attacks and allow some victims to walk farther without developing pain. These agents are new and all the hazards of prolonged usage are not known. As a result they should be taken only under the watchful eye of a physician.

Angina pectoris is chest pain coming from a poorly nourished heart muscle. The usual cause is thickening or narrowing of the coronary arteries that supply the heart muscle with blood. The circulation usually is adequate when the victim is quiet, and at peace with the world.

But the opening through the vessel is too small to carry the blood needed to nourish the old ticker when the heart is forced to pump harder because of overexertion or anxiety. The muscle goes into a painful rebellion that is described as a sense of pressure, constriction, or a burning sensation beneath the breastbone. This type of discomfort should serve as a warning that the heart is not up to par. Angina may be a prelude to a heart attack. Need more be said?

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on angina pectoris if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SMOKING

D. R. writes: If a mother smokes during pregnancy, will the children became cancerous? I remember way back when this disease was almost unknown and women did not smoke.

REPLY

There is no proof that the offspring of women who smoke are more likely to develop cancer. The disease has existed since the beginning of man but nowadays we hear more about it because a greater number of people are living to the cancer age.

CATARACT GROWTH

C. F. writes: How long does it take cataracts to grow? Two years ago, when I had my eyes examined for a change in reading glasses, nothing was said about cataracts but now I have them in both eyes.

REPLY

There is a beginning for every disease. Even though cataracts develop slowly, I assume they were first detected at the last examination.

CRYING GIRL

Mrs. J. V. writes: Why should a 9 year old girl be unhappy and cry all the time?

REPLY

She is abnormally depressed and may be in need of sympathetic and understanding care. Talk to your physician alone. He may suggest psychiatric care.

EGGS CAUSE DISTRESS

M. M. writes: What would cause terrible pains in the belly after eating eggs?

REPLY

Allergy is the commonest cause unless the bowel is spastic and the eating of eggs is purely coincidental. In such instances, pain results from the effects on the bowel of nervousness, tension, or fatigue.

DIGESTION AND GIRDLES

F. J. F. writes: Does wearing tight girdle interfer with digestion?

REPLY

No, considering the number of stout women who wear their girdles tight.

TOMORROW: The last decade's mortality rates.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When it came to cussing, farmer Obediah took the cake. People from all over came to marvel at his ability to cuss for 15 minutes at a stretch without so much as taking time out to bite off a chaw of terbakky.

One stormy afternoon word went around that the brand new bakery barn had collapsed, burying Obediah's new 1960 station wagon. Everybody rushed over to hear what promised to be a world's record in continuous profanity. The extent of the misfortune proved too much for him, however. He shook his head and announced, "You'll have to excuse me, folks. I just cannot cuss enough to do justice to the occasion."

A TV comic had taken up ice skating between bouts with John Barleycorn, and progressed to the point where he boasted about his figure 8s. "That's the simplest trick on ice," scoffed his producer. "Kids do it every day."

"Not the way I do it," said the comic. "I make a 5 with one foot and 3 with the other."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

A speech was made in Buffalo by Robert F. Kennedy. He is a younger member of a rich, ambitious family. Young Robert did excellent work as counsel to the McClellan Committee in lifting the wet rocks off members of crime syndicates, the Mafia, and labor crooks. In his speech, he called upon America to organize a National Crime Commission. At first thought, it sounded like an excellent idea.

I'm interested in police work. I grew up on police pay. Any measure that cements the ratholes through which criminals dart in and out of society is, in my opinion, a good one. However, after reading the Kennedy speech, I began to wonder what he would do with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The work of any National Crime Commission would have to overlap that of the FBI.

Please do not count me among those writers who genuflect every time the FBI is mentioned. The Federal Bureau is composed of humans and those humans have made mistakes. Beauts. The FBI is far from perfect, but under the same assessment, it is the best law enforcement agency in the world. It purrs so quietly that even the British M.I.5, the French Surete, and the Russian OGPU cannot hear it operate.

We already have a National Crime Commission. That's it. There are 6,000 members of the FBI spread across 50 states and Puerto Rico. Their work is secret and unhampered. Often, when they make a big catch, there is no publicity at all. Sometimes, the Bureau tracks the criminal and then throws the arrest and the public bows to the local police department.

My father, a long-time police lieutenant, went through the FBI offices two summers ago. He came back shaking his head. I said: "Well, what do you think?"

That, he said, is the most efficient police organization I've ever seen and I've seen some pretty good ones." He was silent a moment and then he said: "I don't know how they keep the politicians off their necks, but that's the secret of police efficiency."

It is. That is why, under Police Commissioner Stephen Kennedy, the New York Department is more efficient now than ever before. The 23,000 men no longer look to City Hall for orders or for favors. A National Crime Commission, composed of intelligent citizens, would have to cross wires with the FBI because they would both be after the same criminals.

John Edgar Hoover has said that he would rather see the FBI disbanded than to be beholden to a Crime Commission. It isn't within his power to disband the Bureau, but one must agree that it would be much less of an organization with two bosses than one.

Even if the proposed crime commission remained separate and independent, it would have to summon witnesses who would be in the active files of the FBI. This was the weakness in the New York State Crime Commission, which ran wild following criminals and tracked its muddy feet across local police departments and state enforcement agencies until both sides were furious.

The FBI has averaged 700 felons per year bagged, not for themselves, but for local police departments. Local police departments reciprocate by working quietly with Special Agents. They not only respect the Bureau, but send their best men to the FBI academy to study advanced police work.

Policemen all over the country study the Bureau's Ten Most Wanted List and, in the past nine years, 113 of them were arrested. Of these, 82 were wanted by city police departments.

This isn't all. The FBI also works in the field of counter-espionage, sabotage, communism-in-government, criminal identification, and other silent projects. Two agencies working the same side of the street would hardly be silent. In time, the charges and counter-charges between them would open a brand new life for the big criminals.

Last year, the FBI conducted 184,933 scientific examinations of evidence for local police departments all over the country. The agents file 20,000 new sets of fingerprints each day to go with the 154,000,000 already tabulated. The system is so nicely balanced that it can be upset by anyone in a position of authority who chooses to intrude.

I'm opposed to that. Good police work is not a commodity we can buy. It begins with integrity, intelligence and independence, three words that start with the letter I. The fourth I is a personal and political pronoun and should be kept out. . .

Piedmont Draws Moorefield As Regional Tourney Foe

Page Jackson And Paw Paw Meet Friday

Shepherd Is Scene Of Action; Bayard Will Play Harman

Paw Paw High School's Pirates (17-5) will play Page Jackson High of Charles Town (10-6) at 7:30 p. m., and Piedmont High School's Lions (18-2) will oppose Moorefield High School's Yellowjackets (14-8) at 9 p. m. Friday at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, in the semi-final round games in the West Virginia Region 4-A basketball tournament.

Drawings were made at a meeting of principals and coaches of the schools involved yesterday at Capon Bridge High School in Hampshire county.

Finals of the tourney are set for Saturday at 8 p. m. There will be no consolation game. Officials will be "Babe" Loretta and John Keister of Fairmont.

The regional event at Shepherd will be directed by Kenneth Waldeck, principal of Musselman High School.

Piedmont has beaten Moorefield twice this season by scores of 58-39 and 69-43. Paw Paw and Page Jackson have not met.

Three of the four teams in this year's regional event made it last season when Piedmont walloped Page Jackson, 79-43, and Piedmont trimmed Paw Paw, 68-41.

Winner Gets Area Berth

The winner of the tourney at Shepherd advances to one of the four area games and the four area winners battle it out for the state Class A crown.

Last season Piedmont knocked Rowlesburg for area honors, 73-65, and lost out in the state semi-finals at Huntington to Fairview High in a 64-56 battle.

The Region No. 3 tourney gets under way at Parsons High School Friday with Aurora meeting Masontown Valley and Bayard playing Harman in the semi-final round. The championship game is billed for Saturday night. Bayard is the winningest team in this tourney with 18 victories in 20 outings.

Page Jackson won the Section 16 tourney at Shepherd College Friday by beating Hedgesville in the finals by the score of 66-56 after disposing of Shepherdstown to the tune of 46-31.

Lions Beat Elk Garden

Piedmont's Lions copped the title in the 13-A sectional Saturday night by whipping Elk Garden at Potomac State by the score of 46-40. It was the third time that Coach William "Huck" Miers had disposed of the Elks this season.

Wayne Russell collected 10 goals and 22 points for Piedmont while Dave Burdock and Gary Evans led Elk Garden with 11 and 10 markers.

Fort Ashby knocked off Ridgeley in the consolation final by the score of 64-42. Jim Steed scored 18 points for the Eagles while Gary Umstot and Paul Price garnered 17 each.

Pirates Belt Lions

Coach Glenn Smith's Paw Paw Pirates scuttled the West Virginia School for the Deaf, 52-35, in the 15-A finale at Romney Saturday night. It was the third consecutive win for the Buccaneers over the Lions.

Tommy Malcolm sparked Paw Paw by dumping in 16 points while Kevin Edmonson took runner-up honors with 11 and Vernon Walls garnered 10. Tommy Jividen paced the scorers of the Deaf School with 16 tallies. Capon Bridge trimmed Berkeley Springs in the consolation game, 50-48.

Franklin String Ends

Coach Jonathan Paugh's Moorefield floormen romped off with the 14-A sectional crown at Moorefield Saturday night by cracking the 12-game winning streak of the Franklin High Panthers, 69-65.

The Jackets pulled the game out of the fire in the final stanza after trailing by 10 points, 57-47, at the close of the third quarter. John Fisher's goal sent Moorefield ahead at 66-65 with 1:20 remaining and foul goals by Doug Yankey and Bill Toohey provided the insurance markers.

Toohey banged in 18 points for the victors. Marlin Evans garnered 14, Yankey 13 and Fisher 10. Rich Bennett and Orville Rexrode led the Panthers with 20 and 18 points. Wardensville trimmed Circleville in the consolation tilt, 68-42. Virgil Heishman scored 12 goals and 32 points for the Warriors of Coach "Pete" Vance.

Bayard High Advances

Bayard qualified for a berth in the Region 3 tourney this week by winning the 11-A sectional Saturday night at Parsons. The Grant Countians whipped Belington, 68-59, but had to go an overtime stanza to grab the decision. The regulation game ended with the count knotted at 57-all.

Belington trimmed Mountaineer High of Thomas, 46-42, on Friday to reach the finals.

Jerry Tephabock scored 16 points to lead Bayard. Paul Knotts was runner-up with 15 and Lonnie Kuhn garnered 14. Price and Wilson accounted for 42 points for Belington.

Cumberland Player Tops CVAL Scoring 3rd Year

Pope Rings Up 170, Haynes' 160 Second

A Cumberland player copped the scoring championship of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League for the third straight season when Mervin Pope, of Allegany High School, registered 170 points for a 17.0 average during the 1959-60 campaign which drew to a close Friday night.

Olen Haynes of the Martinsburg High champions finished in the runner-up spot with 160 points in 10 games. Jim Smith, South Hagerstown, was third with 125 tallies, while Ronnie Hartock of Frederick and John Schell of Martinsburg were tied for fourth place with 124 markers each.

Charley Robinson of Fort Hill hung up the record last year when he scored 185 points for an 18.5 average. Gary Shook of Allegany was the 1958 winner with 180 points and an 18.0 average. Charley Keller of Frederick set the pace the first year (1957) when he chalked up 108 points for an 18.0 average in six games in the four team league of that season.

Blooms Slowly In Spring

William A. Shea, potent force in organizing the new Continental Baseball League, will be glad when all the fuss is over . . . "I've got to get back to my law practice pretty soon," he said, "or go back to school for a refresher course."

Pitcher Cal McLish, traded by the Indians to Cincinnati in a swap for Johnny Temple, has advised his new bosses he's a slow starter in the spring and to expect no training camp miracles . . . still, Cal won his first five for the Indians at the start of last season and wound up 19-7.

Alex Olmedo, rookie tennis pro, is last in the tour standings but doing far better than anyone expected because he has to bear down on every shot and has no time to let his mind wander—a failing that cost him many an amateur match he should have won with ease . . . "He's the worst front runner I ever saw," says Jack Kramer.

Jim Lee Howell, who'll step down as coach of the New York Football Giants after next season, says he has looked at so many movies of pro games he now has to wear eye-glasses . . . most pro scouting is done via movies, hour after hour of careful scrutiny . . . backfield Coach Al Sherman has the inside track on Howell's job, particularly if he had another good year with the Giant offense . . . the 1959 New York club had its best attack in years, much of it due to Sherman's pass patterns for chuckin' Chuck Conerly . . . halfback Frank Gifford also had his best year with 1,459 yards counting running, passing and passes received.

Preakness Richest For Colts

There'll be 26 "derbies" for 3-year-old horses next season but only one Preakness . . . Kentucky Derby is No. 1 in the United States, but there also are 10 other "state derbies"—Arkansas, Arizona, California, Florida, New Jersey, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia . . . Preakness will be the richest for the 3-year-olds, though, with gross of $190,000 expected for the May 21 run.

Harry (Champ) Segal, dandy lightweight in the 1920s, tells a wild tale of being arrested for mutiny on the high seas in his recent autobiography . . . incident occurred on the way home from a tropical treasure hunt, a shipboard scuffle that wound up as an official "mutiny."

Spalding has a new six-fingered baseball mitt designed so the same glove will fit various sized hands . . . at a stockholders meeting the other day two old gals who own a few shares were looking over the new equipment on display and predicted the new mitt just wouldn't sell . . . "I don't know any boy with six fingers," one said to the other.

Montgomery county teams have won state Class A honors four times in the past eight years. Montgomery Blair's Blazers of Silver Spring went all the way in 1952, 1953 and 1955 and BCC was the victor last year.

Allegany High beat BCC in the 1954 finale at College Park, 76-41. Fort Hill was Allegany county's last winner in 1958.

Wins Sports Car Race In Maserati

HAVANA (AP) — Stirling Moss of England, hitting over 100 m.p.h. on straightaways in his new experimental Maserati Birdcage, won the 155-mile grand prix sports car race Sunday.

The 34-year-old daredevil shot into the lead from his pole position and led all the way in his powerful white 2.8 liter car.

Moss finished more than a minute ahead of Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, who ran second in his 3-liter Ferrari.

Moss' chief threat, world champion Jack Brabham of Austria, conked out on the 19th lap when his Cooper Monaco developed coil trouble. As it turned out, less than half the 37-car starting field finished the race.

The winner completed the 50 laps in 1:57:31.5, averaging almost 80 m.p.h.

Hundreds of fans streamed onto the course to give a hero's welcome to Moss and a group of Cuban soldiers hoisted him on their shoulders on the way back to the pits.

"I say, they are a bit enthusiastic here," he murmured.

The victory was worth $2,500 to Moss. He collected another $8,000 in appearance money and expenses. Masten Gregory of Kansas City finished third in a Porsche RSK.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Televised segments of the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., are expected to produce a tremendous boom on America's ski slopes next season . . . guys and gals who formerly figured snow was strictly for shoveling or to get stuck in are bombarding skiing acquaintances with questions about "how to" and "how much?" indicating unprecedented interest.

Mass participation, according to experts in other sports, is the only way to produce gold medal winners . . . we could use a few.

Chicago White Sox have a rookie left-handed pitcher named Wilbur (Jake) Striker, who is quite a striker-outer . . . Jake whiffed 123 batsmen working for San Diego last year and struck out five while pitching for Cleveland in winning his only major league game last season.

Blooms Slowly In Spring

William A. Shea, potent force in organizing the new Continental Baseball League, will be glad when all the fuss is over . . . "I've got to get back to my law practice pretty soon," he said, "or go back to school for a refresher course."

Pitcher Cal McLish, traded by the Indians to Cincinnati in a swap for Johnny Temple, has advised his new bosses he's a slow starter in the spring and to expect no training camp miracles . . . still, Cal won his first five for the Indians at the start of last season and wound up 19-7.

Alex Olmedo, rookie tennis pro, is last in the tour standings but doing far better than anyone expected because he has to bear down on every shot and has no time to let his mind wander—a failing that cost him many an amateur match he should have won with ease . . . "He's the worst front runner I ever saw," says Jack Kramer.

Jim Lee Howell, who'll step down as coach of the New York Football Giants after next season, says he has looked at so many movies of pro games he now has to wear eye-glasses . . . most pro scouting is done via movies, hour after hour of careful scrutiny . . . backfield Coach Al Sherman has the inside track on Howell's job, particularly if he had another good year with the Giant offense . . . the 1959 New York club had its best attack in years, much of it due to Sherman's pass patterns for chuckin' Chuck Conerly . . . halfback Frank Gifford also had his best year with 1,459 yards counting running, passing and passes received.

Preakness Richest For Colts

There'll be 26 "derbies" for 3-year-old horses next season but only one Preakness . . . Kentucky Derby is No. 1 in the United States, but there also are 10 other "state derbies"—Arkansas, Arizona, California, Florida, New Jersey, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia . . . Preakness will be the richest for the 3-year-olds, though, with gross of $190,000 expected for the May 21 run.

Harry (Champ) Segal, dandy lightweight in the 1920s, tells a wild tale of being arrested for mutiny on the high seas in his recent autobiography . . . incident occurred on the way home from a tropical treasure hunt, a shipboard scuffle that wound up as an official "mutiny."

Spalding has a new six-fingered baseball mitt designed so the same glove will fit various sized hands . . . at a stockholders meeting the other day two old gals who own a few shares were looking over the new equipment on display and predicted the new mitt just wouldn't sell . . . "I don't know any boy with six fingers," one said to the other.

Wins Sports Car Race In Maserati

HAVANA (AP) — Stirling Moss of England, hitting over 100 m.p.h. on straightaways in his new experimental Maserati Birdcage, won the 155-mile grand prix sports car race Sunday.

The 34-year-old daredevil shot into the lead from his pole position and led all the way in his powerful white 2.8 liter car.

Moss finished more than a minute ahead of Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, who ran second in his 3-liter Ferrari.

Moss' chief threat, world champion Jack Brabham of Austria, conked out on the 19th lap when his Cooper Monaco developed coil trouble. As it turned out, less than half the 37-car starting field finished the race.

The winner completed the 50 laps in 1:57:31.5, averaging almost 80 m.p.h.

Hundreds of fans streamed onto the course to give a hero's welcome to Moss and a group of Cuban soldiers hoisted him on their shoulders on the way back to the pits.

"I say, they are a bit enthusiastic here," he murmured.

The victory was worth $2,500 to Moss. He collected another $8,000 in appearance money and expenses. Masten Gregory of Kansas City finished third in a Porsche RSK.

BETHESDA - CHEVY CHASE High School of Montgomery county (District 2) will defend its Maryland Class A basketball championship starting March 11 at the University of Maryland's Field House.

The Barons made it for the second straight year by whipping Richard Montgomery High School for the Montgomery County title with a 75-49 victory Friday night at Rockville.

Bethesda won the state title at College Park last year by beating Howard County High of Ellicott City. The Barons reached the 1959 state finals by eliminating Annapolis, 85-48. Howard County became a finalist by downing North High of Hagerstown, 48-42.

Montgomery county teams have won state Class A honors four times in the past eight years, Montgomery Blair's Blazers of Silver Spring went all the way in 1952, 1953 and 1955 and BCC was the victor last year.

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—Uncle Sam's battling hockey team won a gold medal and Germany's Helmut Recknagel captured the spectacular 80-meter jumping crown Sunday in the wind-up of the most successful of all Winter Olympic Games.

Blessed with fine weather for the 10th straight day of the games, 35,000 fans poured through the gates of Squaw Valley to watch the closing activities.

Most of them, however, arrived too late to see the U. S. hockey team, trailing by a 3-4 count going into the final period, explode for six goals and bury Czechoslovakia, 9-4, to cinch the first hockey gold medal ever won the United States in the Olympics.

The victory gave the Yanks a 5-0 record in championship round competition.

Canada whipped Russia for second place by a 7-5 score to gain the silver medal. The Soviets got the bronze.

Russia as anticipated, made a complete run-away of the unofficial team title with 165½ points. But there was a dandy race for second. Sweden won it with 71½ points to 71 for the U.S. and 70½ for Germany.

Only about 4,000 fans were in Blyth Arena Sunday morning when United States and Czechoslovakia squared off.

Czechs Strike Early

The dog-tired Yanks, who have been in a continuing series of rugged battles, were stunned on the first play of the game when the Czechs' Miroslav Vlach, a ham-fisted factory worker, stole the puck and went all the way from the blue line to score in eight seconds.

It was a see-saw battle with the advantage changing on every score and the Yanks in danger of taking a beating and leaving the door open for Canada to tie them with a victory over Russia.

Then the Soviets took a hand to assure the United States team its victory. Russian team captain Nikolai Sologubov, who doesn't speak English, came up to U. S. coach Jack Riley. Through motions with his hands, he indicated that the Yanks needed oxygen.

Riley got the message, plus a bottle of oxygen.

From then on the Yanks were regular tigers. Roger Christian, Warroad, Minn., ripped down the rink, took a pass from his brother Bill, and drilled the puck into the net to deadlock the count — and the rally was on.

The crowd in the arena let loose a tremendous roar and a new spirit filtered through the U. S. team.

Christian Sparks Yanks

It was just one minute and 41 seconds later that Bob Cleary, Westwood, Mass., put the Yanks in front, to stay and this time it was the start of a rout over a team that had held the upper hand.

With one Czech sent to the penalty box, the U. S. stars powered in three more goals to wrap it up. During the game, Roger Christian a 24-year-old star, with Babe Ruth power in his hockey stick, scored four goals. Bob Cleary had two; and the others went to Weldon Olson, Marquette, Mich., and Bob (Rabbit) McVey, Hamden, Conn.

Recknagel was the lad the Finns had feared in the jumping competition. The 25-year-old from Steinbach-Hallenberg, had been spectacular in pre - games practices.

Sets Ski Record

Displaying flawless form, Recknagel leaped 93.5 meters (306.8 feet) on his first jump and was given 117.6 points. On his second leap he cleared 84.5 meters (277.2 feet), good for 110.4 points and an overall total of 227.2.

Second place went to Niilo Halonen of Finland with 222.6 points, and third to Otto Leodolter, Austria, with 219.4.

Cousy And Russell Score 54, Celtics Top Knicks, 129-125

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Russell and Bob Cousy caught fire in the final period to lead the Boston Celtics to a 129-125 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Sunday at Madison Square Garden.

Cousy, held to seven points in the first half, began to connect midway in the third period after New York had gone in front, 79-74. The lead changed hands nine times before the Celtics went ahead 88-87 and stayed on top through the play of Russell and Cousy.

A string of five points by Russell and six by Cousy early in the fourth quarter gave Boston an apparent safe lead, 111-102. But the Knicks fought their way back to within four points before time ran out.

Cousy and Russell scored 27 points each while Bill Sharman added 26 points, 18 of which he tallied in the first half when Boston led 66-65.

Richie Guerin led the Knicks with 39 points and set a new season club scoring record of 1,500 points, breaking Kenny Sears' mark of 1,488 established last season.

Title To Follansbee

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Ray Prantil scored 22 points Sunday to lead Follansbee St. Anthony's to an easy 79-47 win over Weston St. Patrick's in the finals of the Class A West Virginia Catholic High School basketball tournament.

Arnold Palmer Captures Texas Open With 276

Pennsy Pro Takes $2,800 Top Prize

By ED FITE
United Press International

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., lost his putting touch in the cold north wind Sunday, but still had enough golf left to post a 36-39—75 and win the $2,800 first prize in the Texas Open golf tournament with a 276.

The tour's top money winner, starting the final nine holes with a fat six stroke lead, finished only two strokes ahead of Frank Stranahan and Doug Ford, a pair of veterans playing out of Crystal River, Fla.

Ford sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a 37-33—70—the day's lowest round—to catch Stranahan, who had finished with a 38-35—73 in the threesome ahead of him.

They split $3,300 for their futile efforts to overhaul the front-running Palmer.

Wes Ellis Is 4th

Wes Ellis Jr., the defending champion from West Caldwell, N.J., closed with a 39-35—75 to pick up the $1,200 fourth money with a 284, and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., finished fifth with a 37-36—73 and 285—worth $1,100.

Palmer, who had been a picture of consistency with his short irons and putter in posting earlier rounds of 69-69-67, had his troubles Sunday.

"My wrists got cold and I lost the feel of the club," Palmer said. "Especially I lost my putting touch."

He missed two-foot putts, for instance, on the 12th and 18th holes. His only birdies came on the third, where he canned a three-footer and on the par five ninth, where he two-putted.

The wind gave him trouble off the tee. He hit a tree on the long second hole and was in a trap off the tee on the 12th, and drove into a road on the 17th.

Passes $19,000 Mark

Palmer ran his winnings for the eight - week-old season past the $19,000 mark, the highest ever for such a short stand on the winter tour.

Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, Tex., stationed here at Fort Sam Houston where this year's open was played, finished with a 37-38 — 75 and was at 286 worth $1,000 to him.

Warriors Defeat Pistons, 113-111

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons held big Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain to 23 points but couldn't keep the Philadelphia Warriors from moving to a 113-111 victory Sunday at the University of Detroit Field House.

Chamberlain had an off-day. He hit on only 10 of 25 field goal attempts and cashed in on only three of 12 charity tosses. Teammate Tom Gola took up some of the scoring slack by connecting for 24 points.

The Pistons held a four-point bulge 83-79, entering the final 12 minutes but couldn't hold it in the closing minutes.

Gene Shue was high scorer for the Pistons with 22 points.

Bahama Gets Garden Bout

Fights Zalazar On Friday Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — Middleweights Victor Zalazar of Argentina and Yama Bahama from the island of Bimini meet at Madison Square Garden Friday night in a TV fight that stands out on this week's boxing schedule.

More experienced Bahama is a slight favorite 6-5 to beat lanky Zalazar, despite the latter's punching prowess. Their 10-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

At the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night, unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba — top welterweight contender—engages Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn. Rodriguez is favored at 4-1. The 10-rounder will be televised nationally by ABC.

The Monday night fights in New York shift back from the Academy of Music to St. Nicholas Arena, where Cuban Isaac Logart, former welterweight contender, meets Peter Schmidt of New York.

The Eastern Golden Gloves finals will be staged at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Hagan's 39 Sparks Hawks To Triumph

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Cliff Hagan's 39 points sparked the St. Louis Hawks to a 122 - 105 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in the National Basketball Association Sunday.

The defeat put a further damper on Cincinnati's playoff chances in the Western Division. Any combination of three Royal defeats or Minneapolis victories will eliminate Cincinnati from the post-season playoffs.

Hagan scored 28 of his points in the first half as St. Louis built up a 60-53 lead. The Hawks were ahead, 86-77, going into the last quarter and Si Green scored all of his 12 points in the final period to ice the decision.

Bob Pettit scored 28 points and had 30 rebounds for St. Louis. Arlen Bockhorn was high for the Royals with 23 points and teammate Jack Twyman hit 22.

West Virginia Faces Navy In NCAA Playoff

Game Set March 8 In New York City

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — West Virginia, with its sixth consecutive Southern Conference Championship neatly wrapped up, head into the NCAA playoffs against Navy.

But Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaus would have nothing to say Saturday night after WVU's 82-72 conquest of Virginia Tech except that "I hope we make a good showing."

West Virginia faces Navy (16-5) in the opening round at Madison Square Garden March 8 and will be up against the same Middie squad that Tech put down in regular season play 89-78.

Schaus will be hoping to get some of the outstanding performances from his "unknowns" that he did Saturday after All-America Jerry West fouled out with 12:31 left.

Both WVU and Tech silenced each other's big threat, West and Chris Smith with 14 points each, and it remained up to Jim Warren and West's substitute, Paul Miller, to save the bacon for the Mounties.

It was the unheralded Warren who came through with three straight 25-foot jump shots to break a 54-54 deadlock in the last nine minutes.

Miller, a 6-6 "red shirt" not even listed in West Virginia's brochure, applied the clincher with seven needed finishing points and added another all-important six rebounds.

Don Lock, Greensboro, N. C., outfielder had 30 homers and 122 runs batted in last season but fanned 167 times in 133 Carolina League games.

U.S. Hockey Team Sweeps To Title At Winter Olympics

Czechs Are 5th Victim In 9-4 Tilt

Russians Dominate Games; Sweden Edges U.S. For 2nd

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—Uncle Sam's battling hockey team won a gold medal and Germany's Helmut Recknagel captured the spectacular 80-meter jumping crown Sunday in the wind-up of the most successful of all Winter Olympic Games.

Blessed with fine weather for the 10th straight day of the games, 35,000 fans poured through the gates of Squaw Valley to watch the closing activities.

Most of them, however, arrived too late to see the U. S. hockey team, trailing by a 3-4 count going into the final period, explode for six goals and bury Czechoslovakia, 9-4, to cinch the first hockey gold medal ever won the United States in the Olympics.

The victory gave the Yanks a 5-0 record in championship round competition.

Canada whipped Russia for second place by a 7-5 score to gain the silver medal. The Soviets got the bronze.

Russia as anticipated, made a complete run-away of the unofficial team title with 165½ points. But there was a dandy race for second. Sweden won it with 71½ points to 71 for the U.S. and 70½ for Germany.

Only about 4,000 fans were in Blyth Arena Sunday morning when United States and Czechoslovakia squared off.

Czechs Strike Early

The dog-tired Yanks, who have been in a continuing series of rugged battles, were stunned on the first play of the game when the Czechs' Miroslav Vlach, a ham-fisted factory worker, stole the puck and went all the way from the blue line to score in eight seconds.

It was a see-saw battle with the advantage changing on every score and the Yanks in danger of taking a beating and leaving the door open for Canada to tie them with a victory over Russia.

Then the Soviets took a hand to assure the United States team its victory. Russian team captain Nikolai Sologubov, who doesn't speak English, came up to U. S. coach Jack Riley. Through motions with his hands, he indicated that the Yanks needed oxygen.

Riley got the message, plus a bottle of oxygen.

From then on the Yanks were regular tigers. Roger Christian, Warroad, Minn., ripped down the rink, took a pass from his brother Bill, and drilled the puck into the net to deadlock the count — and the rally was on.

The crowd in the arena let loose a tremendous roar and a new spirit filtered through the U. S. team.

Christian Sparks Yanks

It was just one minute and 41 seconds later that Bob Cleary, Westwood, Mass., put the Yanks in front, to stay and this time it was the start of a rout over a team that had held the upper hand.

With one Czech sent to the penalty box, the U. S. stars powered in three more goals to wrap it up. During the game, Roger Christian a 24-year-old star, with Babe Ruth power in his hockey stick, scored four goals. Bob Cleary had two; and the others went to Weldon Olson, Marquette, Mich., and Bob (Rabbit) McVey, Hamden, Conn.

Recknagel was the lad the Finns had feared in the jumping competition. The 25-year-old from Steinbach-Hallenberg, had been spectacular in pre-games practices.

Sets Ski Record

Displaying flawless form, Recknagel leaped 93.5 meters (306.8 feet) on his first jump and was given 117.6 points. On his second leap he cleared 84.5 meters (277.2 feet), good for 110.4 points and an overall total of 227.2.

Second place went to Niilo Halonen of Finland with 222.6 points, and third to Otto Leodolter, Austria, with 219.4.

Medal Winners In Olympics

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—The final medal standings in the winter Olympic Games (gold medals for first place, silver for second and bronze for third):

Country	Gold	Silver	Bronze
Russia	7	5	9
Germany	4	3	1
United States	3	4	3
Norway	3	3	0
Sweden	3	2	2
Finland	2	3	3
Canada	2	1	1
Austria	1	2	3
France	1	0	2
Holland	0	1	1
Poland	0	1	1
Czechoslovakia	0	1	0
Italy	0	0	1

(Note: There was a tie for first place in the 1,500 meters men's figure skating, with both being awarded gold medals. So there are two more gold medals than silver ones.)

Cousy And Russell Score 54, Celtics Top Knicks, 129-125

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Russell and Bob Cousy caught fire in the final period to lead the Boston Celtics to a 129-125 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Sunday at Madison Square Garden.

Cousy, held to seven points in the first half, began to connect midway in the third period after New York had gone in front, 79-74. The lead changed hands nine times before the Celtics went ahead 88-87 and stayed on top through the play of Russell and Cousy.

A string of five points by Russell and six by Cousy early in the fourth quarter gave Boston an apparent safe lead, 111-102. But the Knicks fought their way back to within four points before time ran out.

Cousy and Russell scored 27 points each while Bill Sharman added 26 points, 18 of which he tallied in the first half when Boston led 66-65.

Richie Guerin led the Knicks with 39 points and set a new season club scoring record of 1,500 points, breaking Kenny Sears' mark of 1,488 established last season.

Title To Follansbee

Arnold Palmer Captures Texas Open With 276

Pennsy Pro Takes $2,800 Top Prize

By ED FITE
United Press International

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., lost his putting touch in the cold north wind Sunday, but still had enough golf left to post a 36-39—75 and win the $2,800 first prize in the Texas Open golf tournament with a 276.

The tour's top money winner, starting the final nine holes with a fat six stroke lead, finished only two strokes ahead of Frank Stranahan and Doug Ford, a pair of veterans playing out of Crystal River, Fla.

Ford sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a 37-33—70—the day's lowest round—to catch Stranahan, who had finished with a 38-35—73 in the threesome ahead of him.

They split $3,300 for their futile efforts to overhaul the front-running Palmer.

Wes Ellis Is 4th

Wes Ellis Jr., the defending champion from West Caldwell, N.J., closed with a 39-35—75 to pick up the $1,200 fourth money with a 284, and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., finished fifth with a 37-36—73 and 285—worth $1,100.

Palmer, who had been a picture of consistency with his short irons and putter in posting earlier rounds of 69-69-67, had his troubles Sunday.

"My wrists got cold and I lost the feel of the club," Palmer said. "Especially I lost my putting touch."

He missed two-foot putts, for instance, on the 12th and 16th holes. His only birdies came on the third, where he canned a three-footer and on the par five ninth, where he two-putted.

The wind gave him trouble off the tee. He hit a tree on the long second hole and was in a trap off the tee on the 12th, and drove into a road on the 17th.

Passes $19,000 Mark

Palmer ran his winnings for the eight-week-old season past the $19,000 mark, the highest ever for such a short stand on the winter tour.

Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, Tex., stationed here at Fort Sam Houston where this year's open was played, finished with a 37-38 — 75 and was at 286 worth $1,000 to him.

Warriors Defeat Pistons, 113-111

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons held big Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain to 23 points but couldn't keep the Philadelphia Warriors from moving to a 113-111 victory Sunday at the University of Detroit Field House.

Chamberlain had an off-day. He hit on only 10 of 25 field goal attempts and cashed in on only three of 12 charity tosses. Teammate Tom Gola took up some of the scoring slack by connecting for 24 points.

The Pistons held a four-point bulge 83-79, entering the final 12 minutes but couldn't hold it in the closing minutes.

Gene Shue was high scorer for the Pistons with 22 points.

Bahama Gets Garden Bout

Fights Zalazar On Friday Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — Middleweights Victor Zalazar of Argentina and Yama Bahama from the island of Bimini meet at Madison Square Garden Friday night in a TV fight that stands out on this week's boxing schedule.

More experienced Bahama is a slight favorite 6-5 to beat lanky Zalazar, despite the latter's punching prowess. Their 10-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

At the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night, unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba — top welterweight contender—engages Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn. Rodriguez is favored at 4-1. The 10-rounder will be televised nationally by ABC.

The Monday night fights in New York shift back from the Academy of Music to St. Nicholas Arena, where Cuban Isaac Logart, former welterweight contender, meets Peter Schmidt of New York.

The Eastern Golden Gloves finals will be staged at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Hagan's 39 Sparks Hawks To Triumph

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Cliff Hagan's 39 points sparked the St. Louis Hawks to a 122 - 105 victory over the Cincinnati Royals in the National Basketball Association Sunday.

The defeat put a further damper on Cincinnati's playoff chances in the Western Division. Any combination of three Royal defeats or Minneapolis victories will eliminate Cincinnati from the post-season playoffs.

Hagan scored 28 of his points in the first half as St. Louis built up a 60-53 lead. The Hawks were ahead, 86-77, going into the last quarter and Si Green scored all of his 12 points in the final period to ice the decision.

Bob Pettit scored 28 points and had 30 rebounds for St. Louis. Arlen Bockhorn was high for the Royals with 23 points and teammate Jack Twyman hit 22.

He said the university is cooperating fully with the NCAA.

Aycock said he and other university officials will attend a hearing before the NCAA Infractions Committee at Kansas City Tuesday.

West Virginia Faces Navy In NCAA Playoff

Game Set March 8 In New York City

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — West Virginia, with its sixth consecutive Southern Conference Championship neatly wrapped up, head into the NCAA playoffs against Navy.

But Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaus would have nothing to say Saturday night after WVU's 82-72 conquest of Virginia Tech except that "I hope we make a good showing."

West Virginia faces Navy (16-5) in the opening round at Madison Square Garden March 8 and will be up against the same Middie squad that Tech put down in regular season play 89-78.

Schaus will be hoping to get some of the outstanding performances from his "unknowns" that he did Saturday after All-America Jerry West fouled out with 12:31 left.

Both WVU and Tech silenced each other's big threat, West and Chris Smith with 14 points each, and it remained up to Jim Warren and West's substitute, Paul Miller, to save the bacon for the Mounties.

It was the unheralded Warren who came through with three straight 25-foot jump shots to break a 54-54 deadlock in the last nine minutes.

Miller, a 6-6 "red shirt" not even listed in West Virginia's brochure, applied the clincher with seven needed finishing points and added another all-important six rebounds.

Don Lock, Greensboro, N. C., outfielder had 30 homers and 122 runs batted in last season but fanned 167 times in 133 Carolina League games.

Television and Radio

Dip Into History

In these troubled television times, the industry is plunging most successfully, almost gratefully, into history. Last week, two quite different types of shows unfolded on NBC—"Shadow of a President," on the "Our American Heritage" series, which was a sort of dramatic essay on Presient U. S. Grant's hard times and declining years, and Project 20's "Not So Long Ago," which was an attempt to follow up its successful documentaries on the '20s and '30s.

The Grant play opened with Melvyn Douglas in a remarkably faithful and forceful impersonation of Mark Twain, telling a rather bad joke about the sixty-three-year-old President's cigar-smoking habits. "It was the first time I ever saw him laugh," obesrved Twain, walking right out of the setting and addressing the audience. You got the idea right there that it would be a grim recital and it surely was. Grant's life was heartbreakingly harsh and unrewarding, all except the Civil War years. Even then his triumphs were overlaid by grief for the dead and wounded.

John Whedon, who wrote the play, used a remarkably flexible method of pumping from one time sequence to the other. His actors would simply move out of one picture frame of a set into another decade. It kept the story moving lightly, gracefully, and it kept the emphasis on the proper place — the genius and shortcomings and peculiarly American personality of Grant (and to a somewhat lesser extent of Twain). Whedon skipped nimbly over the disgraceful years in the White House. Grant was a terrible President, but he spared him not at all otherwise, detailing him drinking, his slovenliness, his surprising (to me, anyway) dislike of the army and army life.

But through it all, Grant, played very well by an impassive James Whitmore, emerged as a tremendously sympathetic figure. Right now, in this amorphous time of shiftnig values, when the heroes of our young are Frankie Avalon and Fabian, this "American Heritage" show gives us a sense of our great past and of our great men and of the troubles and issues that the nation has surmounted and survived. This we need. In an age of conformity, it's inspiring to see some genuine individuals and the play was full of them—not only Grant, but Twain and Lee and Lincoln. The drama was directed with great simplicity and freshness by Jack Smight.

I was less happy with "Not So Long Ago," though I'm sure it was much more successful with the audience. "Not So Long Ago" was the story of the nation—its good times and hard times and enthusiasms and despairs—in the period from 1945 when World War II ended to when the Korean war began.

It started very dramatically with a radio message: "Cease fire! Cease fire! The war is over!" (What did they do in war dramas before they invented the control tower, the greatest dramatic gadget since the telephone.) From there the picture went into roughly twelve minutes of kissing and dancing in the streets, to celebrate the peace. Then peace descended in earnest like a gray cloud and from then on the story stretched in an undeviating line which is not dramatically a very good line.

The end of gas rationing, the separation centers, the war brides, Churchill at Fulton, Mo., launching the phrase "the Iron Curtain," the Red hunt in Hollywood, Alger Hiss, the New Look, the Ingrid Bergman-Rosselini romance (and Rita and Aly), the Marshal Plan, Truman's reelection, the flying saucers, the first hydrogen bomb — it's not that these things are not interesting; they are terribly interesting in themselves but they are too unvarying, or too close to us, or too uniformly the same to have any coherent message.

A hundred years from now, what a great impact this same show will have. But then it will have a new narration, tying it to the distant past and to the present, with a wisdom we don't yet have. The narrator, incidentally, was Bob Hope who was very matter - of - fact about the chore and very good.

SOUND OF ARITHMETIC

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Rebecca Warden, has devised a new method of teaching multiplication to her students.

She has set the multiplication table to music. The idea is that if the children miss a combination, the rhythm of the song will remind them of the correct answer.

To Visit England

PORTLAND, England (UPI) — The U. S. nuclear submarine Skate will pay a five-day informal visit to Portland starting Tuesday, the Navy announced Sunday.

The 268-foot sub, which surfaced at the North Pole a year ago, visited Portland harbor in March, 1958.

Take Leave

HARWELL, England (UPI) — One thousand of the Harwell Atomic Energy Research establishment's 1,600 civil servants are going on a strike that's not a strike.

All 1,000 have applied for one day's leave on Tuesday.

The civil servants belong to the Institution of Professional Civil Servants, which by tradition does not strike against the government. But the 1,000 members here at Britain's main atomic research center have adopted the simultaneous-leave device as a protest against delays in meeting their request for more pay.

For almost 1,200 years after Christ, music was confined mainly to the church.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the 1840's, a work week of 72 hours was customary in England and the United States, while 80 hours or more was usual in continental Europe, a 20th Century Fund report shows.

PENNY PINCHERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even the Federal Reserve Bank is pinching pennies to curb inflation. The New York Fed has announced that starting next Oct. 1 it will no longer wrap coins into neat rolls free for member banks, a service it has performed for 30 years.

Won't Accept

BERLIN (UPI) — Mayor Willy Brandt said Sunday West Berlin would not accept any experiments that endanger the city's freedom.

He said in an article written for the West Berlin newspaper Telegraf that the Soviet proposal to make West Berlin a free city was unacceptable.

"Berlin will remain free in the sense of what we understand by freedom. We will not be tooled by the Eastern use of similar words," Brandt said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name *Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Dip Into History

In these troubled television times, the industry is plunging most successfully, almost gratefully, into history. Last week, two quite different types of shows unfolded on NBC—"Shadow of a President," on the "Our American Heritage" series, which was a sort of dramatic essay on Presient U. S. Grant's hard times and declining years, and Project 20's "Not So Long Ago," which was an attempt to follow up its successful documentaries on the '20s and '30s.

The Grant play opened with Melvyn Douglas in a remarkably faithful and forceful impersonation of Mark Twain, telling a rather bad joke about the sixty-three-year-old President's cigar-smoking habits. "It was the first time I ever saw him laugh," obesrved Twain, walking right out of the setting and addressing the audience. You got the idea right there that it would be a grim recital and it surely was. Grant's life was heartbreakingly harsh and unrewarding, all except the Civil War years. Even then his triumphs were overlaid by grief for the dead and wounded.

John Whedon, who wrote the play, used a remarkably flexible method of pumping from one time sequence to the other. His actors would simply move out of one picture frame of a set into another decade. It kept the story moving lightly, gracefully, and it kept the emphasis on the proper place — the genius and shortcomings and peculiarly American personality of Grant (and to a somewhat lesser extent of Twain). Whedon skipped nimbly over the disgraceful years in the White House. Grant was a terrible President, but he spared him not at all otherwise, detailing him drinking, his slovenliness, his surprising (to me, anyway) dislike of the army and army life.

But through it all, Grant, played very well by an impassive James Whitmore, emerged as a tremendously sympathetic figure. Right now, in this amorphous time of shiftnig values, when the heroes of our young are Frankie Avalon and Fabian, this "American Heritage" show gives us a sense of our great past and of our great men and of the troubles and issues that the nation has surmounted and survived. This we need. In an age of conformity, it's inspiring to see some genuine individuals and the play was full of them—not only Grant, but Twain and Lee and Lincoln. The drama was directed with great simplicity and freshness by Jack Smight.

I was less happy with "Not So Long Ago," though I'm sure it was much more successful with the audience. "Not So Long Ago" was the story of the nation—its good times and hard times and enthusiasms and despairs—in the period from 1945 when World War II ended to when the Korean war began.

It started very dramatically with a radio message: "Cease fire! Cease fire! The war is over!" (What did they do in war dramas before they invented the control tower, the greatest dramatic gadget since the telephone.) From there the picture went into roughly twelve minutes of kissing and dancing in the streets, to celebrate the peace. Then peace descended in earnest like a gray cloud and from then on the story stretched in an undeviating line which is not dramatically a very good line.

The end of gas rationing, the separation centers, the war brides, Churchill at Fulton, Mo., launching the phrase "the Iron Curtain," the Red hunt in Hollywood, Alger Hiss, the New Look, the Ingrid Bergman-Rosselini romance (and Rita and Aly), the Marshal Plan, Truman's reelection, the flying saucers, the first hydrogen bomb — it's not that these things are not interesting; they are terribly interesting in themselves but they are too unvarying, or too close to us, or too uniformly the same to have any coherent message.

A hundred years from now, what a great impact this same show will have. But then it will have a new narration, tying it to the distant past and to the present, with a wisdom we don't yet have. The narrator, incidentally, was Bob Hope who was very matter-of-fact about the chore and very good.

SOUND OF ARITHMETIC

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Rebecca Warden, has devised a new method of teaching multiplication to her students.

She has set the multiplication table to music. The idea is that if the children miss a combination, the rhythm of the song will remind them of the correct answer.

To Visit England

PORTLAND, England (UPI) — The U. S. nuclear submarine Skate will pay a five-day informal visit to Portland starting Tuesday, the Navy announced Sunday.

The 268-foot sub, which surfaced at the North Pole a year ago, visited Portland harbor in March, 1958.

WIFE PRESERVERS

A stubborn patch of dirt on the floor can often be removed with fine steel wool moistened with a little turpentine.

Take Leave

HARWELL, England (UPI) — One thousand of the Harwell Atomic Energy Research establishment's 1,600 civil servants are going on a strike that's not a strike.

All 1,000 have applied for one day's leave on Tuesday.

The civil servants belong to the Institution of Professional Civil Servants, which by tradition does not strike against the government. But the 1,000 members here at Britain's main atomic research center have adopted the simultaneous-leave device as a protest against delays in meeting their request for more pay.

For almost 1,200 years after Christ, music was confined mainly to the church.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the 1840's, a work week of 72 hours was customary in England and the United States, while 80 hours or more was usual in continental Europe, a 20th Century Fund report shows.

PENNY PINCHERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even the Federal Reserve Bank is pinching pennies to curb inflation. The New York Fed has announced that starting next Oct. 1 it will no longer wrap coins into neat rolls free for member banks, a service it has performed for 30 years.

Won't Accept

BERLIN (UPI) — Mayor Willy Brandt said Sunday West Berlin would not accept any experiments that endanger the city's freedom.

He said in an article written for the West Berlin newspaper Telegraf that the Soviet proposal to make West Berlin a free city was unacceptable.

"Berlin will remain free in the sense of what we understand by freedom. We will not be fooled by the Eastern use of similar words," Brandt said.

About four out of every 10 families in the United States use a household budget.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name *Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Should Farmer Incorporate?

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — A circular distributed by the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station indicates it might be to a farmer's benefit to incorporate his holdings.

There are seven benefits which might result from incorporation of the family-type farm.

The liability would be limited to debts of the corporation only. Incorporation is a method of establishing multiple ownership. It is a means of transferring ownership within the family.

Benefits are possible under the Small Business Act. An employe of such a corporation, if he is also a shareholder, may find additional benefits under retirement laws. It might become easier to get credit for such a corporation.

Finally, the complete records and reports which are a part of incorporation may help guide the farmer to more efficient operation of his holdings.

The authors of the circular do not claim that incorporation would be beneficial to all farmers but it would aid some.

'Beep-Beep!'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The first national convention of the newly-formed Small Auto Club will be held in the greater Philadelphia area this autumn. Theme of the convention will be "Safety and Fun in Small and Compact Cars."

Richard S. Ross, president of club formed last October, said it was hoped to have talks by well-known safety experts—special forums on performance and maintenance of small and compact cars — and a national rally and Gymkhana for members.

The club, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has members in nearly every state in the union and Canada, Ross said.

Secrets Of Charm

Dance Through a Week to Beauty!
2-29

NOW is the time to get your figure in trim for Spring fashions.

Streamline For Spring

Once upon a time a woman gained a little weight with each birthday until in her middle years she became known as — and thought of herself as — a big woman.

So, as she worried her way through the Spring fashions, bypassing colors and styles she liked because of her expanded figure, she resigned herself to the "middle-age spread."

Fortunately, however, an improved scientific understanding of the body and its control has changed all that. NOW, no woman under ninety believes that her figure is in the hands of an unkind fate. She knows that it's under her own control, and that all she has to do is keep it there.

The wise modern woman guards her figure like the government guards Fort Knox. With a tape measure and a scale, any woman can make a monthly check to keep her figure in check and keep Father Time from stealing it! When the tape stretches beyond the inches that become her and the scale tips dangerously upward, she gets her diet into line and exercises so that her next four-week check will be a relief and a pleasure.

My booklet, "Dance Through A Week to Beauty," aids you to achieve streamlined grace. Just write to me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents (in coin) to cover cost. In addition to this routine, today I'm going to give you an exercise that will keep the accusing finger of fashion from ever pointing to anything but a perfectly-proportioned hip. It's something to treasure and to start using right at this moment if you want to be ready for Spring fashions. If you wait . . . it's going to be a sad, sad story of "too late."

Here's what to do:

Sit on the floor with all your weight on your left hip. Keep your feet and legs together and pull them around as far as possible to your right side. Balance yourself by placing your hands in front of you, a bit to the left. Now, give a good push off with your hands; let them leave the floor as you swing your legs in a circle in front of you until they reach your left side. Now, center your weight on your right hip, put your hands in front of you again and repeat the exercise. Five times will be enough at first but by the time you reach fifteen per day you won't have a hip problem!

Have Mass Wedding

COPERTINO, Italy (UPI) — Here come the brides, all 25 of them.

This Adriatic coast village celebrated what it believed was some sort of a record: the mass marriage of 25 couples.

Some 2,000 persons watched as the brides and grooms drove up to the church in 25 cars. Many of the spectators held placards reading "auguri e figli maschi"—best wishes and male children.

After the ceremony, the couples drove off to their separate honeymoons.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Te clean heavy, greasy dirt of the type that accumulates behind and inside appliances, use your vacuum cleaner and attachments before attacking with cleansing agents.

Eskimos Favor 'U.S. Malemute' Over Airplane

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The Eskimo natives of Kaltag village would appreciate it if the U.S. Post Office would abandon the system of delivering their mail by air and go back to the "good old days" of dog sleds.

It would be faster that way, the village council said in a letter to postal authorities, and it would also give the villagers something to do.

At present, Kaltag, which is 400 miles northwest of Anchorage, has its mail delivered by an Alaska Airlines plane that serves the village from Unaladiet, 71 miles away, on a once-weekly schedule. However, the flight is often cancelled on account of bad weather.

The Eskimos said it would be much better if letters were delivered to Nulato, which is on an air route from Fairbanks, and then brought the remaining 32 miles by sled.

That would make for quicker, more regular service, the council said, adding:

"If we are allowed to deliver our own mail, it will help us a lot. There was no job for anybody last summer and trapping is no good . . . We don't know what we can do for our families."

Ex-Prof Now Janitor

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Former Professor John Franklin Smith is now a janitor at Otterbein College here and enjoying it.

Smith, 79, once an instructor in speech and drama, retired in 1950 after a 33-year academic career. But he didn't want to leave the school.

"I'm busy earning the degree of master of maintenance," he explained. "I think a man can dignify any job."

Agile, alert, cheerful and friendly, Smith takes care of the college gym. Students presented him with a red sweater carrying a big white Otterbein "O" on it and he wears it while he shines the floor with a big mop.

Killed In Wreck

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — David Stout, 26, Catlettsburg, was killed Saturday near here when a car in which he was riding skidded on a patch of ice and overturned. The driver of the car, Daney Laney, 16, Catlettsburg, received only minor injuries.

Centuries ago in Europe, gentlemen who were regular drinkers had personal drinking cups that they took to the tavern each night and to their graves when they died.

Illegitimate GI Children Left Behind In Germany

By JOHN PARRY

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Every week hundreds of American soldiers depart by plane or boat for home, leaving someone behind in Germany.

Sometimes it's a girl friend, soon to be forgotten. Sometimes it's a wife who'll join her husband later.

But all too frequently it's an illegitimate child, a tiny addition to the population of Germany fathered by a GI who has no intention of marrying the mother.

American consular officials are trying to convince soldiers who have fathered illegitimate children here that they should register their births and thus give the children the right to American citizenship.

650 to 750 Registered

"Every month we register between 650 and 750 births of new American citizens," a spokesman for the U.S. consulate in Frankfurt said.

"But we will miss plenty. If we could only persuade these thoughtless soldiers to think of the children they have brought into the world, we would really be accomplishing something."

"A soldier who tries to cover up or ignore the birth of his illegitimate child may be ruining that child's future," the spokesman said. "There are plenty of children around who are entitled to American citizenship, but who will never get it because of the thoughtlessness of their fathers."

Many of the babies who are never registered are the children of American soldiers and German girls who marry after the birth.

No Proof Later

"They never bother to register the birth with us, and are therefore unable to prove in later years that their child is entitled to citizenship," the spokesman said.

"In fact the children are eligible as citizens as soon as the parents marry. But they must be able to prove their birth when applying for citizenship."

A tiny fraction of the babies born illegitimately to Americans in Europe are those born to American women and fathered by men other than the husband.

These are entitled to citizenship whoever the father is — but only if the birth is registered with the nearest consulate.

Turn Signals For Ships

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An American cargo vessel is trying out a new system for avoiding collisions at sea, a system that's been used on automobiles for years — turn signals.

The U.S.N.S. Golden Eagle has two huge amber arrows fixed to the forward railings of its flying bridge. These arrows, illuminated by 28 100-watt bulbs, are used to indicate a change in course to any oncoming vessel.

The U.S. Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service has asked all ships which meet the Golden Eagle to report their reactions to the direction signals.

If successful, they may be installed on all American ships.

Hometown Honors Sinclair Lewis

SAUK CENTRE, Minn. (UPI)—This is "Sinclair Lewis year" here, the hometown of the Nobel prize winning author and the prototype of his novel, "Main Street."

Although residents were slow to welcome Lewis back after publication of "Main Street," the town now points with pride to its most outstanding citizen.

Lewis, who died in 1951, would have been 75 Feb. 7, but his birthdate was celebrated here Feb. 11.

He is buried here beside his father, a country doctor who was the model for Dr. Kennicott in "Main Street."

Population Down 2 Per Cent In W. Va.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Industrial Conference Board said Sunday West Virginia was one of three states that showed a population decrease from 1950 to 1959.

The board said the Mountain State had a population of 2,006,000 in 1950 compared to 1,965,000 at the end of last year. This was a population drop of about 2 per cent.

Arkansas dropped 8.7 per cent and Vermont was down 1.4 per cent.

Diet Pills 'A Waste'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reducing pills may have a pronounced effect upon your cash balance, but little upon your weight.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Louis M. Orr, president of the American Medical Association.

In attacking pill quackery, Dr. Orr has stated: "The multi-million dollar traffic in . . . reducing preparations is deplorable from a medical and a public-health point of view.

"Clinical tests have repeatedly shown up these items as a complete waste of money."

Named To Post

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Manager George M. Lyon of the Huntington VA Hospital announced Sunday Raymond C. Adams, Huntington, had been appointed chief of the hospital's registrar division. He succeeds Fred B. Keppers who accepted a similar post at the Cleveland, Ohio VA Hospital.

Mineral-rich waters of a spring at Chasmeh, Ali, Iran, are believed to brighten and preserve the colors of Persian rugs. So famous is the pool that customers send rugs to it for washing from as far away as Germany.

Girl Reporter Test-Drives Russian Car

By ALINE MOSBY

MOSCOW (UPI) — I "road tested" an American-bound Moskvich car — by whirring six times around Stalin's statue.

"Our Moskvich car is going to the United States!" is the latest proud boast that has replaced rockets in cab driver conversation around Moscow since a Syracuse, N. Y., auto dealer signed a deal to import 10,000 of the small Soviet cars next summer.

But roadtesting one in Moscow in advance of its entry into the U. S. small car scramble is not accomplished the same way as in the U. S.

For one thing, Moscow has one small automobile showroom where Russians wait for their number to come up on the waiting list for Soviet cars — the Moskvich, Pobeda, Volga and luxury Zil. I saw two Volgas and a potted palm on display, none containing gas, oil or a salesman for a drive around the block.

But the Moskvich factory hospitably agreed to give a preview of the cars that will head for U.S. streets. The man who confirmed the appointment, however, inquired, "But can a woman really drive?"

Victor Polyakov, 44, the factory manager, showed off the rows of finished gleaming models in a large garage where the cars receive final washes and checkups. While workers, both male and kerchiefed, coveralled female, stood around watching, I kicked the tires and tested the horn of the four-door, four-passenger sedan in traditional American car-testing fashion.

"Our cars have great strength," Polyakov said. "We don't have as good roads as you do in America so the cars are made to drive on poor roads — good cars for mountains and country. And they're economical, six-to-eight liters of gas per 100 kilometers (approximately 31 miles to a gallon)."

At last Polyakov let me drive the car, although he wheeled it out of the garage first.

Since women drivers are an oddity in Russia, my "road test" was limited to a fast six turns around a white statue of Stalin on the factory grounds with three nervous factory officials giving directions. The wheel turns easily.

The 159 2-3-inch-long car has a sturdy, practical look with the hint of a tailfin in back and a front grill faintly reminiscent of a Ford of some years back. I had a feeling I was sitting up high as the car is built high (61.4 inches) for rutty roads and even fording shallow streams.

The four-cylinder, 45 h. p. motor looks like any new motor to me — clean. It goes up to 71.9 miles per hour. The export model comes in pale blue, orange, beige and green, two-tone colors and white.

Russians complain they have trouble buying spare parts, but the factory manager said Americans will be shipped plenty.

If I want to buy a Moskvich, I'd better go to the U. S. Here, unless you pull rank as a foreigner, the waiting list is up to two years.

In Moscow the Moskvich is priced at $2,500, at the tourist rate of exchange. Officials aren't saying how much the cars are costing the importer. The price in the U. S. will be up to the importer, but probably will be competitive with other foreign imports like the Volkswagen and Volvo.

Should Farmer Incorporate?

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — A circular distributed by the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station indicates it might be to a farmer's benefit to incorporate his holdings.

There are seven benefits which might result from incorporation of the family-type farm.

The liability would be limited to debts of the corporation only. Incorporation is a method of establishing multiple ownership. It is a means of transferring ownership within the family.

Benefits are possible under the Small Business Act. An employe of such a corporation, if he is also a shareholder, may find additional benefits under retirement laws. It might become easier to get credit for such a corporation.

Finally, the complete records and reports which are a part of incorporation may help guide the farmer to more efficient operation of his holdings.

The authors of the circular do not claim that incorporation would be beneficial to all farmers but it would aid some.

'Beep-Beep!'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The first national convention of the newly-formed Small Auto Club will be held in the greater Philadelphia area this autumn. Theme of the convention will be "Safety and Fun in Small and Compact Cars."

Richard S. Ross, president of club formed last October, said it was hoped to have talks by well-known safety experts—special forums on performance and maintenance of small and compact cars — and a national rally and Gymkhana for members.

The club, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has members in nearly every state in the union and Canada, Ross said.

Secrets Of Charm

Dance Through a Week to Beauty!
2-29

NOW is the time to get your figure in trim for Spring fashions.

Streamline For Spring

Once upon a time a woman gained a little weight with each birthday until in her middle years she became known as — and thought of herself as — a big woman.

So, as she worried her way through the Spring fashions, bypassing colors and styles she liked because of her expanded figure, she resigned herself to the "middle-age spread."

Fortunately, however, an improved scientific understanding of the body and its control has changed all that. NOW, no woman under ninety believes that her figure is in the hands of an unkind fate. She knows that it's under her own control, and that all she has to do is keep it there.

The wise modern woman guards her figure like the government guards Fort Knox. With a tape measure and a scale, any woman can make a monthly check to keep her figure in check and keep Father Time from stealing it! When the tape stretches beyond the inches that become her and the scale tips dangerously upward, she gets her diet into line and exercises so that her next four-week check will be a relief and a pleasure.

My booklet, "Dance Through A Week to Beauty," aids you to achieve streamlined grace. Just write to me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents (in coin) to cover cost. In addition to this routine, today I'm going to give you an exercise that will keep the accusing finger of fashion from ever pointing to anything but a perfectly-proportioned hip. It's something to treasure and to start using right at this moment if you want to be ready for Spring fashions. If you wait . . . it's going to be a sad, sad story of "too late."

Here's what to do:

Sit on the floor with all your weight on your left hip. Keep your feet and legs together and pull them around as far as possible to your right side. Balance yourself by placing your hands in front of you, a bit to the left. Now, give a good push off with your hands; let them leave the floor as you swing your legs in a circle in front of you until they reach your left side. Now, center your weight on your right hip, put your hands in front of you again and repeat the exercise. Five times will be enough at first but by the time you reach fifteen per day you won't have a hip problem!

Have Mass Wedding

COPERTINO, Italy (UPI) — Here come the brides, all 25 of them.

This Adriatic coast village celebrated what it believed was some sort of a record: the mass marriage of 25 couples.

Some 2,000 persons watched as the brides and grooms drove up to the church in 25 cars. Many of the spectators held placards reading "auguri e figli maschi"—best wishes and male children.

After the ceremony, the couples drove off to their separate honeymoons.

Eskimos Favor 'U.S. Malemute' Over Airplane

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The Eskimo natives of Kaltag village would appreciate it if the U.S. Post Office would abandon the system of delivering their mail by air and go back to the "good old days" of dog sleds.

It would be faster that way, the village council said in a letter to postal authorities, and it would also give the villagers something to do.

At present, Kaltag, which is 400 miles northwest of Anchorage, has its mail delivered by an Alaska Airlines plane that serves the village from Unaladiet, 71 miles away, on a once-weekly schedule. However, the flight is often cancelled on account of bad weather.

The Eskimos said it would be much better if letters were delivered to Nulato, which is on an air route from Fairbanks, and then brought the remaining 32 miles by sled.

That would make for quicker, more regular service, the council said, adding:

"If we are allowed to deliver our own mail, it will help us a lot. There was no job for anybody last summer and trapping is no good . . . We don't know what we can do for our families."

Ex-Prof Now Janitor

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Former Professor John Franklin Smith is now a janitor at Otterbein College here and enjoying it.

Smith, 79, once an instructor in speech and drama, retired in 1950 after a 33-year academic career. But he didn't want to leave the school.

"I'm busy earning the degree of master of maintenance," he explained. "I think a man can dignify any job."

Agile, alert, cheerful and friendly, Smith takes care of the college gym. Students presented him with a red sweater carrying a big white Otterbein "O" on it and he wears it while he shines the floor with a big mop.

Killed In Wreck

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — David Stout, 26, Catlettsburg, was killed Saturday near here when a car in which he was riding skidded on a patch of ice and overturned. The driver of the car, Daney Laney, 16, Catlettsburg, received only minor injuries.

Centuries ago in Europe, gentlemen who were regular drinkers had personal drinking cups that they took to the tavern each night and to their graves when they died.

Illegitimate GI Children Left Behind In Germany

By JOHN PARRY

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Every week hundreds of American soldiers depart by plane or boat for home, leaving someone behind in Germany.

Sometimes it's a girl friend, soon to be forgotten. Sometimes it's a wife who'll join her husband later.

But all too frequently it's an illegitimate child, a tiny addition to the population of Germany fathered by a GI who has no intention of marrying the mother.

American consular officials are trying to convince soldiers who have fathered illegitimate children here that they should register their births and thus give the children the right to American citizenship.

650 to 750 Registered

"Every month we register between 650 and 750 births of new American citizens," a spokesman for the U.S. consulate in Frankfurt said.

"But we will miss plenty. If we could only persuade these thoughtless soldiers to think of the children they have brought into the world, we would really be accomplishing something."

"A soldier who tries to cover up or ignore the birth of his illegitimate child may be ruining that child's future," the spokesman said. "There are plenty of children around who are entitled to American citizenship, but who will never get it because of the thoughtlessness of their fathers."

Many of the babies who are never registered are the children of American soldiers and German girls who marry after the birth.

No Proof Later

"They never bother to register the birth with us, and are therefore unable to prove in later years that their child is entitled to citizenship," the spokesman said.

"In fact the children are eligible as citizens as soon as the parents marry. But they must be able to prove their birth when applying for citizenship."

A tiny fraction of the babies born illegitimately to Americans in Europe are those born to American women and fathered by men other than the husband.

These are entitled to citizenship whoever the father is — but only if the birth is registered with the nearest consulate.

Turn Signals For Ships

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An American cargo vessel is trying out a new system for avoiding collisions at sea, a system that's been used on automobiles for years — turn signals.

The U.S.N.S. Golden Eagle has two huge amber arrows fixed to the forward railings of its flying bridge. These arrows, illuminated by 28 100-watt bulbs, are used to indicate a change in course to any oncoming vessel.

The U.S. Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service has asked all ships which meet the Golden Eagle to report their reactions to the direction signals.

If successful, they may be installed on all American ships.

Hometown Honors Sinclair Lewis

SAUK CENTRE, Minn. (UPI)—This is "Sinclair Lewis year" here, the hometown of the Nobel prize winning author and the prototype of his novel, "Main Street."

Although residents were slow to welcome Lewis back after publication of "Main Street," the town now points with pride to its most outstanding citizen.

Lewis, who died in 1951, would have been 75 Feb. 7, but his birthdate was celebrated here Feb. 11.

He is buried here beside his father, a country doctor who was the model for Dr. Kennicott in "Main Street."

Population Down 2 Per Cent In W. Va.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Industrial Conference Board said Sunday West Virginia was one of three states that showed a population decrease from 1950 to 1959.

The board said the Mountain State had a population of 2,006,000 in 1950 compared to 1,965,000 at the end of last year. This was a population drop of about 2 per cent.

Arkansas dropped 8.7 per cent and Vermont was down 1.4 per cent.

Diet Pills 'A Waste'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reducing pills may have a pronounced effect upon your cash balance, but little upon your weight.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Louis M. Orr, president of the American Medical Association.

In attacking pill quackery, Dr. Orr has stated: "The multi-million dollar traffic in . . . reducing preparations is deplorable from a medical and a public-health point of view.

"Clinical tests have repeatedly shown up these items as a complete waste of money."

Named To Post

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Manager George M. Lyon of the Huntington VA Hospital announced Sunday Raymond C. Adams, Huntington, had been appointed chief of the hospital's registrar division. He succeeds Fred B. Keppers who accepted a similar post at the Cleveland, Ohio VA Hospital.

Mineral-rich waters of a spring at Chasmeh, Ali, Iran, are believed to brighten and preserve the colors of Persian rugs. So famous is the pool that customers send rugs to it for washing from as far away as Germany.

Girl Reporter Test-Drives Russian Car

By ALINE MOSBY

MOSCOW (UPI) — I "road tested" an American-bound Moskvich car — by whirring six times around Stalin's statue.

"Our Moskvich car is going to the United States!" is the latest proud boast that has replaced rockets in cab driver conversation around Moscow since a Syracuse, N. Y., auto dealer signed a deal to import 10,000 of the small Soviet cars next summer.

But roadtesting one in Moscow in advance of its entry into the U. S. small car scramble is not accomplished the same way as in the U. S.

For one thing, Moscow has one small automobile showroom where Russians wait for their number to come up on the waiting list for Soviet cars — the Moskvich, Pobeda, Volga and luxury Zil. I saw two Volgas and a potted palm on display, none containing gas, oil or a salesman for a drive around the block.

But the Moskvich factory hospitably agreed to give a preview of the cars that will head for U.S. streets. The man who confirmed the appointment, however, inquired, "But can a woman really drive?"

Victor Polyakov, 44, the factory manager, showed off the rows of finished gleaming models in a large garage where the cars receive final washes and check-ups. While workers, both male and kerchiefed, coveralled female, stood around watching, I kicked the tires and tested the horn of the four-door, four-passenger sedan in traditional American car-testing fashion.

"Our cars have great strength," Polyakov said. "We don't have as good roads as you do in America so the cars are made to drive on poor roads — good cars for mountains and country. And they're economical, six-to-eight liters of gas per 100 kilometers (approximately 31 miles to a gallon)."

At last Polyakov let me drive the car, although he wheeled it out of the garage first.

Since women drivers are an oddity in Russia, my "road test" was limited to a fast six turns around a white statue of Stalin on the factory grounds with three nervous factory officials giving directions. The wheel turns easily.

The 159 2-3-inch-long car has a sturdy, practical look with the hint of a tailfin in back and a front grill faintly reminiscent of a Ford of some years back. I had a feeling I was sitting up high as the car is built high (61.4 inches) for rutty roads and even fording shallow streams.

The four-cylinder, 45 h. p. motor looks like any new motor to me — clean. It goes up to 71.9 miles per hour. The export model comes in pale blue, orange, beige and green, two-tone colors and white.

Russians complain they have trouble buying spare parts, but the factory manager said Americans will be shipped plenty.

If I want to buy a Moskvich, I'd better go to the U. S. Here, unless you pull rank as a foreigner, the waiting list is up to two years.

In Moscow the Moskvich is priced at $2,500, at the tourist rate of exchange. Officials aren't saying how much the cars are costing the importer. The price in the U. S. will be up to the importer, but probably will be competitive with other foreign imports like the Volkswagen and Volvo.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you pound some sense into my daughter's head? She's 24 and behaving like a 10-year-old child.

First let me tell you that Hortense is a nice looking girl. She has the ridiculous idea that she should have her nose made over. I admit her nose is not perfect. It's a bit prominent, but it has lots of character.

Hortense thinks a nose operation would improve her looks and make her more attractive to men. I say any man worth having would look right past her nose into her beautiful soul.

She has saved money for two years to pay for this operation. She wants to make an appointment for next month. Please say I'm right to put my foot down.

—WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: You have no right to put your foot down on your 24-year-old daughter's nose. She's not a child and apparently she's thought this matter over carefully before making a decision.

It may well be that Hortense has a beautiful soul, and when the right man comes along he'll recognize it. But maybe if the nose were out of the way he could see the soul better.

It's not what YOU think about her nose, but how SHE feels that counts. Often after this type of surgery the personality flowers, merely because the individual has more confidence. Give Hortense your blessings. She may win by a nose.

DEAR ANN: My husband insists he can still be friends with his former sweetheart without it affecting our life together. I don't agree.

Recently he went overseas with the Army. He wrote that he sent his "old friend" a $5 gift to pay off a bet he "kinda owed her."

I wrote back that I didn't like the idea one bit. I also told him that since the bet was two years old she probably didn't expect him to pay it—particularly now that he's a married man.

I'm not the jealous type, Ann, but I think old flames are for the birds. Am I taking the wrong attitude?

—DEEPLY HURT

DEAR DEEPLY: If there's anything a husband overseas doesn't need it's a searing letter from his wife with overtones of jealousy.

Since he'd already sent the gift you should have swallowed hard and skipped it. It would've been better had he waited till he got home and sent something from Mr. and Mrs. But since he didn't, forget it and be glad he leveled with you.

DEAR MRS LANDERS: There is a boy in my school who goes around telling everybody that he is my cousin. I don't think he is. Here are the details.

He is my aunt's brother. She is an aunt only by marriage. Her husband is my dad's brother. What do you think?

—NOT RELATED

DEAR NOT: I think if this boy is so eager to claim you for a relative you shouldn't be so technical. Be a good egg and make him happy the next time you see him by saying "What's buzzin' cousin?"

CONFIDENTIAL TO ONE-SIDED MARRIAGE: A wife is a partner whether she brings home a pay check or not. She should have some money to call her own as a matter of dignity.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Goren On Bridge

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠AK 9 2 ♥7 ♦A 8 ♣J 9 8 6 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—While partner has shown a mere preference for clubs, nevertheless, he may, without having an impressive holding, produce just enough material for you to go to game. The silence of the opponents at this low level makes it highly probable that partner's hand contains some high card strength. It behooves you, therefore, to take one more step, and the suggested call is three clubs.

—0—

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, you are South and hold:

♠KJ7 4 ♥6 3 2 ♦10 5 3 ♣K 9 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 NT.	Double	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—It is clearly established that West, poor fellow, is in dire straits. By simple arithmetic we can conclude that he hasn't a high card in his hand. North has at least 16. East presumably 16, and you have seven. That West can win eight tricks is inconceivable and a penalty double is in order.

—0—

Q. 3—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:

♥AK 10 9 5 ♦AQ 10 6 3 ♣8 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	Double	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—With unbalanced hands, containing a void of the adverse suit, it is against our policy to stand for penalty doubles of low contracts and our recommended call is two diamonds. We do not subscribe to the theory that "the less trumps I have the more partner has." The more pointed view is, "the less trumps I have the more dummy will have."

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠4 ♥6 ♦AKJ 7 ♣A K J 8 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—It is reasonable to assume that the diamonds are solid and that the question of the trick taking possibilities of this hand depends only in the number of aces held by partner. A Blackwood bid of four no trump is, therefore, clearly indicated.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠6 3 ♦A J 9 ♣A K Q J 9 8 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—The suggested call is three clubs. It is true that such a call is not forcing, but we are willing to assume the risk that the bidding will die. We consider such an occurrence extremely remote and would like to have the bidding develop naturally in order to best determine the full possibilities of the hand.

—0—

Q. 6—You are South with a 90 part score. Your partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠KJ 10 7 5 ♥10 9 8 ♦4 3 ♣J8 2

What do you bid?

A.—Though the one heart puts you out, it is doubtful that the opposition will let the hand go by default. You may expect competition. It is our suggestion, therefore, that while it is cheap you get in a bid and the suggested call is one spade. The fact that you bid with 90 on score does not necessarily suggest that you are ambitions.

—0—

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠9 2 ♥Q 6 5 4 3 ♦AJ 7 ♣Q 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand is not as strong as it looks and a mere single raise made as a free bid would be adequate to describe its strength. We, therefore, suggest a bid of two hearts.

—0—

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠K Q 9 7 6 4 ♥A Q 8 6 5 3 ♦7

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♦	Double	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	5 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—A bid of six hearts has our hearty indorsement. Partner has shown possession of the ace of diamonds and good heart support and it is difficult to see how we will lose more than one spade trick.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you pound some sense into my daughter's head? She's 24 and behaving like a 10-year-old child.

First let me tell you that Hortense is a nice looking girl. She has the ridiculous idea that she should have her nose made over. I admit her nose is not perfect. It's a bit prominent, but it has lots of character.

Hortense thinks a nose operation would improve her looks and make her more attractive to men. I say any man worth having would look right past her nose into her beautiful soul.

She has saved money for two years to pay for this operation. She wants to make an appointment for next month. Please say I'm right to put my foot down. —WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: You have no right to put your foot down on your 24-year-old daughter's nose. She's not a child and apparently she's thought this matter over carefully before making a decision.

It may well be that Hortense has a beautiful soul, and when the right man comes along he'll recognize it. But maybe if the nose were out of the way he could see the soul better.

It's not what YOU think about her nose, but how SHE feels that counts. Often after this type of surgery the personality flowers, merely because the individual has more confidence. Give Hortense your blessings. She may win by a nose.

DEAR ANN: My husband insists he can still be friends with his former sweetheart without it affecting our life together. I don't agree.

Recently he went overseas with the Army. He wrote that he sent his "old friend" a $5 gift to pay off a bet he "kinda owed her."

I wrote back that I didn't like the idea one bit. I also told him that since the bet was two years old she probably didn't expect him to pay it—particularly now that he's a married man.

I'm not the jealous type, Ann, but I think old flames are for the birds. Am I taking the wrong attitude? —DEEPLY HURT

DEAR DEEPLY: If there's anything a husband overseas doesn't need it's a searing letter from his wife with overtones of jealousy.

Since he'd already sent the gift you should have swallowed hard and skipped it. It would've been better had he waited till he got home and sent something from Mr. and Mrs. But since he didn't, forget it and be glad he leveled with you.

DEAR MRS LANDERS: There is a boy in my school who goes around telling everybody that he is my cousin. I don't think he is. Here are the details.

He is my aunt's brother. She is an aunt only by marriage. Her husband is my dad's brother. What do you think? —NOT RELATED

DEAR NOT: I think if this boy is so eager to claim you for a relative you shouldn't be so technical. Be a good egg and make him happy the next time you see him by saying "What's buzzin' cousin?"

CONFIDENTIAL TO ONE-SIDED MARRIAGE: A wife is a partner whether she brings home a pay check or not. She should have some money to call her own as a matter of dignity.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠AK 9 2 ♥7 ♦A 8 ♣J 9 8 6 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—While partner has shown a mere preference for clubs, nevertheless, he may, without having an impressive holding, produce just enough material for you to go to game. The silence of the opponents at this low level makes it highly probable that partner's hand contains some high card strength. It behooves you, therefore, to take one more step, and the suggested call is three clubs.

What do you bid now?

A.—It is clearly established that West, poor fellow, is in dire straits. By simple arithmetic we can conclude that he hasn't a high card in his hand. North has at least 16, East presumably 16, and you have seven. That West can win eight tricks is inconceivable and a penalty double is in order.

Low Pressure Area Brings More Snow

Highway Travel Again Dangerous

A low pressure area moving in from the west brought with it additional snow which yesterday pelted the tri-state area with more than two inches and once more had road crews out cindering and plowing to keep highways clear.

Although schools officials in both Allegany and Garrett counties did not feel that the new storm would cause schools to be closed, they reserved judgment until this morning. The situation could become much worse in a few hours, they felt, but they planned to keep the schools open until a change was warranted.

State Police again issued warnings to motorists to cancel all unnecessary travel west of Frostburg. U. S. Routes 40 and 219 and State Route 495 are covered with snow, wet and very slippery.

Traffic tieups have been reported on Big Savage, Hill Top and Meadow Mountain in Garrett County.

State Road crews were on the job cindering and salting. They reported a slight motor vehicle accident due to the weather on Green Ridge Mountain east of Cumberland. Some property damage was noted but there were no injuries.

State Police said the SRC has well cindered Route 40 east and travel is not hazardous if motorists use caution. West of Cumberland the highways are slushy and beyond Frostburg the roads are reported very dangerous, with chains recommended.

Garrett County road crews had 14 pieces of equipment and 30 men working out of Oakland and Accident. Secondary roads were well covered and slippery with the accumulation of about 2½ inches of snow since early yesterday afternoon.

The new snow brings to nearly 20 inches the accumulation of snow in Garrett County in the four big snowstorms which have hit this area in the past two weeks. Fortunately, no winds accompanied this storm and there was little drifting.

West Virginia authorities said over an inch of snow fell between 4 p. m. and nightfall in the Romney area. Route 50 was wet and traffic in the area was very slow. On Allegheny Front west of Romnew the highway was extremely dangerous, covered with about four inches of new snow and chains are mandatory, state police said. State Road crews were plowing and cindering in the area.

State Police at Bedford reported an inch of snow although chains had not yet been recommended in the early evening. Police said, however, the situation could change in a few hours.

Forecast today is continued snow or rain, ending sometime before noon. High will be in the 30s.

Church Nears Completion

This new edifice being built for St. Luke's Lutheran Church in the 1600 block of Frederick Street is nearing completion and the congregation plans to move into the $425,000 structure on Easter Monday. The George F. Hazelwood Company is the contractor for the church which was designed in contemporary Gothic style by Norman Mansell, Philadelphia architect. Ground for the edifice was broken last June 1. The congregation plans to hold the last service in the present church at Bedford and Columbia streets on Easter Sunday, according to Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor.

Tawes' Budget Remains Intact In Legislature

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature is set up to send the governor's budget back to him Monday almost exactly the way he proposed it 26 days ago.

And that will leave the decks to be cleared of only a handful of other important measures so that final adjournment is probable Wednesday, a day ahead of schedule.

Following closely on the heels of the 477 million dollar budget will be 20 million dollars for capital improvements. This will open the gate for any other appropriation bills, but none of consequence has been backed up.

The one remaining salary issue, a proposed 10 per cent increase for state employes, will be given another airing by the Senate Finance Committee Monday afternoon.

But it is not conceded any hope of passage in the light of the legislative record so far.

The Legislature already has followed the wishes of Gov. Tawes and turned down a general increase for school teachers. He has provided 2½ million dollars in the budget to give only veteran employes a raise and the Legislature is not prone to disagree.

The only remaining action for adoption of the budget is House concurrence in a Senate amendment restoring some funds for civil defense. The total now is $477,080,196, only $53,660 less than the governor recommended.

The only prospective hassle of import awaiting decision is the call for a constitutional convention. Small counties, fearing such a convention would lead to a reduction in their representation in the Legislature, have fought a delaying action against it in the House.

They are hopeful time will run out before a final decision can be reached this session. Even if the convention is approved by the House, it still faces a rocky road in the Senate.

Among the remaining conversational or controversial topics remaining are:

Boats — The bill to register all boats — motor boats and sail boats — over 15 feet at $6 for three years is due for passage by the House with the full course of progress through the Senate still ahead.

College scholarships — The Senate has a House-approved bill to award 2,779 scholarships at an annual cost of about $1,400,000. The outstanding new feature would be to limit all scholarship awards to tuition only, compared with 270 now covering full costs of the student's education.

Legislative salaries — Doubling of the annual pay of legislators to $3,600 is up for final action by the House where the bill originated.

Farm assessments—The Senate is due to put the finishing touches on a series of three bills aimed at permitting lower assessment of farm land than adjacent developments. The Court of Appeals has ruled that the present law is not sufficient.

Homemakers To Meet

The Bedford Road Homemakers will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Bedford Road Zion Methodist Church. Mrs. Theodore Wojcik, president of the group, announced that demonstrations on food and nutrition will be given by Mrs. John Fleigle and Mrs. Wayne Shumaker. A workshop will precede the regular meeting at 7 o'clock.

Luke Mill And Tri-Towns Get Special Recognition

John Luke, manager of the Fine Papers Division of West Virginia Pulp and Paper, Saturday accepted awards of appreciation from the Citizens Council for a Cleaner Potomac during a special Washington TV program about the new water treatment plant there.

Mr. Luke was presented the certificates as a token of gratitude from the council for the work in abating pollution in the Potomac River basin.

The awards were made on behalf of the council by Lowell Mason, a Washington attorney who is a member of the group. Mr. Luke accepted them in behalf of the Westvaco company, and for Luke, Piedmont, Westernport and the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Mr. Mason, an uncle of Robert W. Huck of LaVale and a former member of the Federal Trade Commission, had special praise for the efforts of the three towns, the Luke concern and the river commission in bringing about the construction of the water treatment plant.

The Westvaco manager in turn, said the Tri-Towns especially deserved recognition for their efforts and cooperation as he thanked Mr. Mason for the awards.

The television program, "Our Beautiful Potomac," included a special color film report on the situation at the Luke mill and it showed contrasting shots of the river area, the water treatment plant, the clarifier and sludge plants and the three towns.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming appeared on the program and during an interview congratulated the Luke mill and the Tri-Towns for their accomplishments and their continuing efforts to clean up the Potomac River.

The water treatment plant now has been undergoing "shakedown" operation for over a week.

Safe-Teens Will Meet

Cumberland Chapter 377, Safe-Teens, will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the junior room, rear of Teenland, at Centre Street Methodist Church.

The topic for discussion will be "The Car Owner's Manual." Morton Cozad, president of the chapter, urges all members to attend this meeting so that planning for the auto safety check to be held in the spring can be started.

The Cumberland Optimist Club has decided to sponsor Safe-Teens and to help them with the safety check. Plans also will be made for a highway hazard hunt, to be held in the near future.

Anyone between the ages of 15 and 19 who is interested in safe driving is welcome to attend the meeting.

Musettes To Sing

The Musettes, a group of singers from Allegany High School under the direction of Mrs. Margery Chambers, will present a selection of songs from musical comedies at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Permits totaling $928,300 were issued by the Building Engineer during the month.

Fort Cumberland Homes, the city's third low-rent public housing project, represented most of the values.

Included was $885,000 for 12 buildings which will include 80 dwelling units, and $36,000 for a Housing Authority administration building on East First Street.

Total value of the housing authority permits was $921,000, and the total was swelled by a $6,000 dwelling, a $500 garage and an $800 addition to a home.

January permits were valued at $37,775, bringing the two-month total to the $966,075 mark.

Ordinances On Street Plan Slated

Resurfacing Work Covers 3.3 Miles

Introductory ordinances for the resurfacing of 11 aging streets will be introduced at today's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The ordinances will give notice to owners of property abutting on the streets that ordinances for the leveling, patching, resurfacing and otherwise improving the areas will be introduced on March 14, when all persons affected will be given an opportunity to be heard for or against passage.

The streets to be improved under the program, which Street Commissioner John J. Long plans as the beginning of a long-range street construction and rehabilitation program, have given decades of service.

Useful life of the streets, officials point out, can be extended for many years if holes are filled, low spots leveled and a blacktop wearing course applied.

Commissioner Long said the fact the streets are still in use is a tribute to the men who built them many years ago. The base of the streets is generally excellent but is endangered as holes develop.

Vital statistics on the streets slated for improvement, as prepared by City Engineer C. R. Nuzum, follows:

Fayette Street is scheduled to be resurfaced from Cumberland Street to Braddock Road. It was last improved in 1910 and is of brick construction. The estimated cost of the 6,170-foot improvement is $39,486.

Franklin Street, from Centre Street to Sylvan Avenue, was last improved in 1918. It also is a brick street and it will cost about $8,280 to put it in top condition.

Independence Street, from Bedford to Walnut Street, is scheduled for resurfacing at a cost of $5,220. It is a brick street last improved in 1921.

Kelly Boulevard, from the end of the concrete to Springfield Boulevard, has a brick and macadam surface laid in 1921. Cost of rehabilitation is estimated at $13,649.

Valley Street is to be improved from Fairview Avenue to Furnace Street at an estimated cost of $8,445. It is a brick street which was last improved in 1923.

Wempe Drive, from Oldtown Road to 275 feet beyond Elwood Street, is to cost about $2,399. It is of macadam construction and was last improved in 1939.

Williams Street is scheduled for improvement from Park Street to Maryland Avenue. It is brick and was last improved in 1915. Cost is estimated at about $4,078.

Frederick Street, from Henderson Avenue to Decatur Street is scheduled for improvement at a cost of some $2,127. It is a brick construction and was last improved in 1918.

Bedford Street is to be resurfaced from Henderson Avenue to the end of the brick. The 2,620-foot-long stretch was last improved in 1910 and rehabilitation is estimated to cost $13,624.

Washington Street, from Cumberland Street to Prospect Square, is estimated to cost $2,700. It is of brick construction, last improved in 1914.

The last street listed for improvement is Oldtown Road, from Maryland to Grand Avenue. It is of brick construction, last improved in 1915, and it will cost about $2,975 to put it in top shape.

The entire program covers 17,305 feet of streets for a total of about 3.3 miles. Estimated cost of improvement is $102,983.

Church Nears Completion

This new edifice being built for St. Luke's Lutheran Church in the 1600 block of Frederick Street is nearing completion and the congregation plans to move into the $425,000 structure on Easter Monday. The George F. Hazelwood Company is the contractor for the church which was designed in contemporary Gothic style by Norman Mansell, Philadelphia architect. Ground for the edifice was broken last June 1. The congregation plans to hold the last service in the present church at Bedford and Columbia streets on Easter Sunday, according to Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor.

Tawes' Budget Remains Intact In Legislature

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature is set up to send the governor's budget back to him Monday almost exactly the way he proposed it 26 days ago.

And that will leave the decks to be cleared of only a handful of other important measures so that final adjournment is probable Wednesday, a day ahead of schedule.

Following closely on the heels of the 477 million dollar budget will be 20 million dollars for capital improvements. This will open the gate for any other appropriation bills, but none of consequence has been backed up.

The one remaining salary issue, a proposed 10 per cent increase for state employes, will be given another airing by the Senate Finance Committee Monday afternoon.

But it is not conceded any hope of passage in the light of the legislative record so far.

The Legislature already has followed the wishes of Gov. Tawes and turned down a general increase for school teachers. He has provided 2½ million dollars in the budget to give only veteran employes a raise and the Legislature is not prone to disagree.

The only remaining action for adoption of the budget is House concurrence in a Senate amendment restoring some funds for civil defense. The total now is $477,080,196, only $53,660 less than the governor recommended.

The only prospective hassle of import awaiting decision is the call for a constitutional convention. Small counties, fearing such a convention would lead to a reduction in their representation in the Legislature, have fought a delaying action against it in the House.

They are hopeful time will run out before a final decision can be reached this session. Even if the convention is approved by the House, it still faces a rocky road in the Senate.

Among the remaining conversational or controversial topics remaining are:

Boats — The bill to register all boats — motor boats and sail boats — over 15 feet at $6 for three years is due for passage by the House with the full course of progress through the Senate still ahead.

College scholarships — The Senate has a House-approved bill to award 2,779 scholarships at an annual cost of about $1,400,000. The outstanding new feature would be to limit all scholarship awards to tuition only, compared with 270 now covering full costs of the student's education.

Legislative salaries — Doubling of the annual pay of legislators to $3,600 is up for final action by the House where the bill originated.

Farm assessments—The Senate is due to put the finishing touches on a series of three bills aimed at permitting lower assessment of farm land than adjacent developments. The Court of Appeals has ruled that the present law is not sufficient.

Luke Mill And Tri-Towns Get Special Recognition

John Luke, manager of the Fine Papers Division of West Virginia Pulp and Paper, Saturday accepted awards of appreciation from the Citizens Council for a Cleaner Potomac during a special Washington TV program about the new water treatment plant there.

Mr. Luke was presented the certificates as a token of gratitude from the council for the work in abating pollution in the Potomac River basin.

The awards were made on behalf of the council by Lowell Mason, a Washington attorney who is a member of the group. Mr. Luke accepted them in behalf of the Westvaco company, and for Luke, Piedmont, Westernport and the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Mr. Mason, an uncle of Robert W. Huck of LaVale and a former member of the Federal Trade Commission, had special praise for the efforts of the three towns, the Luke concern and the river commission in bringing about the construction of the water treatment plant.

The Westvaco manager in turn, said the Tri-Towns especially deserved recognition for their efforts and cooperation as he thanked Mr. Mason for the awards.

The television program, "Our Beautiful Potomac," included a special color film report on the situation at the Luke mill and it showed contrasting shots of the river area, the water treatment plant, the clarifier and sludge plants and the three towns.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming appeared on the program and during an interview congratulated the Luke mill and the Tri-Towns for their accomplishments and their continuing efforts to clean up the Potomac River.

The water treatment plant now has been undergoing "shakedown" operation for over a week.

Ordinances On Street Plan Slated

Resurfacing Work Covers 3.3 Miles

Introductory ordinances for the resurfacing of 11 aging streets will be introduced at today's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The ordinances will give notice to owners of property abutting on the streets that ordinances for the leveling, patching, resurfacing and otherwise improving the areas will be introduced on March 14, when all persons affected will be given an opportunity to be heard for or against passage.

The streets to be improved under the program, which Street Commissioner John J. Long plans as the beginning of a long-range street construction and rehabilitation program, have given decades of service.

Useful life of the streets, officials point out, can be extended for many years if holes are filled, low spots leveled and a blacktop wearing course applied.

Commissioner Long said the fact the streets are still in use is a tribute to the men who built them many years ago. The base of the streets is generally excellent but is endangered as holes develop.

Vital statistics on the streets slated for improvement, as prepared by City Engineer C. R. Nuzum, follows:

Fayette Street is scheduled to be resurfaced from Cumberland Street to Braddock Road. It was last improved in 1910 and is of brick construction. The estimated cost of the 6,170-foot improvement is $39,486.

Franklin Street, from Centre Street to Sylvan Avenue, was last improved in 1918. It also is a brick street and it will cost about $8,280 to put it in top condition.

Independence Street, from Bedford to Walnut Street, is scheduled for resurfacing at a cost of $5,220. It is a brick street last improved in 1921.

Kelly Boulevard, from the end of the concrete to Springfield Boulevard, has a brick and macadam surface laid in 1921. Cost of rehabilitation is estimated at $13,649.

Valley Street is to be improved from Fairview Avenue to Furnace Street at an estimated cost of $8,445. It is a brick street which was last improved in 1923.

Wempe Drive, from Oldtown Road to 275 feet beyond Elwood Street, is to cost about $2,399. It is of macadam construction and was last improved in 1939.

Williams Street is scheduled for improvement from Park Street to Maryland Avenue. It is brick and was last improved in 1915. Cost is estimated at about $4,078.

Frederick Street, from Henderson Avenue to Decatur Street is scheduled for improvement at a cost of some $2,127. It is a brick construction and was last improved in 1918.

Bedford Street is to be resurfaced from Henderson Avenue to the end of the brick. The 2,620-foot-long stretch was last improved in 1910 and rehabilitation is estimated to cost $13,624.

Washington Street, from Cumberland Street to Prospect Square, is estimated to cost $2,700. It is of brick construction, last improved in 1914.

The last street listed for improvement is Oldtown Road, from Maryland to Grand Avenue. It is of brick construction, last improved in 1915, and it will cost about $2,975 to put it in top shape.

The entire program covers 17,305 feet of streets for a total of about 3.3 miles. Estimated cost of improvement is $102,983.
